Red Cross to Aid Prairie Drought Area Farmers Offer of Support Given Ottawa In Plains Relief Work

Country-wide Organization of Red Cross Stands Ready to Take Share in Tiding Needy Farmers of Dried-out Prairie Regions Over Fall and Winter Till Next Crop Comes

Ottawa, July 6.—The Canadian Red Cross Society to-day placed its Dominion-wide organization at the disposal of the federal government, to be used in helping to alleviate the serious conditions existing on the prairies due to drought.

Norman Somerville, K.C., chairman of the central council of the Red Cross in Canada, and Dr. J. T. Bigger, national commissioner, conferred with Premier Bennett in regard to what has been officially described as "the national emergency," resulting from poor growing conditions experienced this season on the prairies. The part the Red Cross might take in such relief measures as are instituted will be the subject under discussion.

FULL REPORTS NEEDED

Following the conference with the Prime Minister, Mr. Somerville said: "No definite decision could be reached as to the function of the society in helping to meet the emergency until its full extent has been determined and complete plans for dealing with it have been worked out."

$100,000,000 FUND FOR RELIEF OF CANADA'S NEEDY

Ottawa Dispatch Says Government-municipal Votes May Reach That Total

Toronto, July 6.—In a special dispatch from the Ottawa correspondent, Toronto Globe this morning said: "Authority to spend at least $50,000,000 of federal money for the relief of Canada's unemployed and the famine-stricken farmers of the prairie provinces will be sought by the Dominion Government before Parliament prorogues two weeks hence. How far this sum will go in meeting the urgent problem presented by what Premier Bennett terms 'a national calamity,' it is impossible at the moment to say.

"The emergency is receiving practically continuous consideration by the cabinet, and the most reliable estimate is that not less than $100,000,000 will be required from governments and municipalities to cope with the distressing situation produced by the total crop failure in southern Saskatchewan and portions of the other two prairie provinces, plus the grave unemployment problem."

MOORE'S SUGGESTION

Quebec, July 6.—That there should be more consideration given to the unemployed, particularly transients found in the farm cities and towns, instead of their being chased hither and yon by the authorities when they have "no place to go," was the opinion expressed by Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in an interview here.

"I suppose nobody has ever stopped to think the colonization of the country, progress of the lumbering industry and expansion of the mining territory of the Dominion have been due in a large extent to the men who earn their daily bread by the sweat of their brows," said Mr. Moore.

TEMPORARY HOUSING

"I think the Dominion government could, without great expense, co-operate with the different provincial and municipal authorities in tiding these men over the present period of stress. We have in this country a considerable quantity of military equipment such as tents, bedding and field kitchens. What I suggest is that there should be a conference between the provincial and federal governments whereby it could be arranged that in different municipalities throughout the Dominion semi-military encampments could be set up where the unemployed, especially transient could be housed."

RELIEF LOAN SUGGESTED

Winnipeg, July 6.—As a means of combating the unemployment crisis and providing thousands of men with work, the floating of a big loan, similar to the Great War Victory bond issues, is suggested by Rev. J. S. Bonnell, B.A., B.D., pastor of the Westminster United Church here. He gave his views in a sermon yesterday.

JAPANESE WORLD TRAVELER SAILS FOR THE ORIENT

K. Fukuma Has Ten Days in Which to Reach Tokio in Order to Make His Time

Last Stage of Race Between Two Globe Trotters Is Proving Exciting

"I believe I have a one-day lead over my fellow globe trotter, who is going the other way around the world," said Kenzo Fukuma, Japanese world traveler, who sailed from Victoria this morning for Japan aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia on his return to Japan.

His rival competitor, Sutenaro Shingo, passed through Victoria, June 18, from the Orient aboard the liner President Taft. It is thought he is crossing Siberia en route to Tokyo, from which point both travelers set out on an "assignment" for their newspaper, The Osaka Asahi.

Fukuma will reach Yokohama in nine days aboard the Empress of Asia. If the weather on the North Pacific is favorable, the ship may even make better time and arrive in Yokohama within eight days. The travelers had thirty days in which to make the voyage around the world by regular transportation routes. It is twenty-one days since Fukuma left Japan.

Fukuma arrived in Victoria yesterday afternoon aboard the Canadian National steamer Prince Robert from Seattle, where he arrived in the morning by airplane from Salt Lake City. He crossed the United States from New York by plane. Upon arrival here he was greeted by well-known Japanese and spent the night at the Empress Hotel awaiting the sailing of the liner to the Orient this morning.

He said he had had a splendid trip around the world and was looking forward greatly to rest and relaxation during the voyage across the Pacific on the Empress of Asia. Since leaving Japan he has been continually on the hop, making train and airplane connections. Even on the Atlantic he did not have much respite, for he crossed in little more than four days aboard the German express liner Bremen.

From now until the globe trotters reach home the race will be an exciting one. Fukuma has the lead, although they both are about the same distance from Tokyo. But the Empress will speed right through and arrive in Yokohama on schedule time, while the other traveler may have to wait several days for train and plane connections in Siberia.

Brownlie of Alberta, who are here for the conference this afternoon on unemployment relief problems, came to the Calgary Stampede parade. ## First Man To Make English Channel Round Trip Crossing On Glider

He left France aboard his glider, paused a short time and had lunch on the English coast, and returned to the French side the same evening. Kronfeld is a German.

Billie Burke Wins U.S. Open Golf In Marathon Play-off

Greenwich Professional Finishes Second 36-hole Play-off One Stroke Better Than Von Elm Who Had 149; Von Elm's Putting Touch Deserted Him on Last Nine Holes

Inverness Club, Toledo, Ohio, July 6.—Billie Burke, Greenwich, Conn., professional, to-day won the United States open golf championship, defeating George Von Elm, Los Angeles, in the second 36-hole play-off of a record-smashing marathon.

Burke scored 77-71-148, and Von Elm 76-73-149. Burke rallied this afternoon and assumed a one-stroke lead over Von Elm, after twenty-seven holes.

Burke was out in thirty-four, one under par and totaled 111 strokes for the day. Von Elm was out in thirty-six and totaled 112.

Von Elm's putting touch deserted him almost completely on the outward nine. He had started it with a lead of one stroke after a morning round of 76 to Burke's 77.

Burke wiped out this advantage at the twentieth hole when he pitched another spectacular birdie three on the twenty-second, where his 180-yard pitch rested eighteen inches from the cup.

Von Elm missed a three-foot putt on the twenty-second, taking five. On the next two holes his ball hung on the lip of the cup and on the twenty-fifth, with a chance to pick up two strokes, Burke had taken two shots to get out of a trap, George "blew" a three-footer. On the twenty-sixth Von Elm took three putts from thirty-six feet, to get down in four, and Burke leaped ahead with a birdie two, the result of a tee shot to three feet of the pin on this 210-yard hole.

The gallery of 81 customers stormed the links. Fully 5,000 or more were in a wild gallop as the players reached the turn.

Curses continued to click, despite warnings of officials that both Von Elm and Burke had complained of their noise in the morning.

Son Is Killed, Parents Hurt in Auto Accident

Ogden, Utah, July 6.—Mrs. Ray West Miller, of Clarendon, Alberta, was still unconscious in a hospital in Brigham City to-day as a result of an automobile accident Friday night, in which her son, Ray West Miller, Jr., was killed. The condition of her husband, who was less seriously injured, was unchanged to-day. Mrs. Miller, who received a fracture of the skull, has been in a critical condition ever since. Her twelve-year-old daughter, Marjorie Ruth Miller, left the hospital yesterday and went to the home of her grandparents in Salt Lake City. The Millers were en route for a visit there when the accident occurred. Their car collided with a truck when a third machine forced it from its course.

INCITING OF MUTINY LAID TO STEWART

Unemployed Speaker Arrested By Police Here on Serious Charge

Circulation of Pamphlet to Soldiers and Sailors Alleged; No Bail

Ronald Cyril Cameron Stewart, one of the leaders of the Workers' Alliance in Victoria, and a frequent spokesman on behalf of the unemployed, was arrested this morning and arraigned in the City Police Court on a charge of inciting His Majesty's forces to mutiny from their duty and allegiance.

Stewart was remanded until next Monday. Bail was not fixed, owing to lack of jurisdiction by Magistrate George Jay, F. J. Bennett appeared on his behalf, with A. M. Johnson, K.C., for the prosecution.

The arrest was effected about 7:30 o'clock this morning, at a hall on Broad Street, where Stewart and a number of unemployed have been sleeping. A squad consisting of Inspector Bay of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Staff-Sergeant Robert Owens of the Provincial Police, Chief Thomas Heatley and Detective Inspector John McElean took him into custody.

PAMPHLET IS BASE

The charge against Stewart is laid under section 81 of the Criminal Code and the Army Act of 1907. According to the information which is laid by Staff-Sergeant James O. Philips of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, it is alleged the offence occurred through distribution of a pamphlet headed: "To Soldiers and Sailors," in which statements against capitalism were made, and they were urged to "refuse to shoot hungry workers," concluding with a call for "Forward to the Social Revolution."

POSSIBLE PENALTY

The offence carries with it a maximum penalty of life imprisonment. It is alleged to have taken place between May 1 and June 25.

Mr. Johnson intimated to the court there would be many witnesses at the preliminary hearing, which was fixed for next Monday.

Stewart is a man of twenty-nine years of age. He has been a prominent figure at unemployed meetings here and is a frequent writer of letters to the newspapers.

HOT WEATHER TO CONTINUE

Thermometer Touched Eighty in Down Town District To-day

Forest Fire Danger Warning Issued From Gonzales Observatory

The spell of summer sunshine which sent the thermometer up to eighty in the downtown district of Victoria to-day will continue for several days. Napier Denison of the Gonzales Observatory reported to-day. It would have been much hotter in Victoria but for the cool winds off the sea.

On the hill at Gonzales the thermometer rose to seventy-seven degrees. Severely was the highest temperature yesterday. Winds have dried the country after the lengthy rain spell. Mr. Denison said, in issuing a warning against forest fires.

The hot weather is general all over the Pacific slope, and particularly in California. Two days ago the thermometer reached ninety-eight in San Francisco. Yesterday evening in the scorching Sacramento Valley the mercury rose to 110 degrees. It is ninety in most parts of Oregon and Washington.

High temperatures are reported in interior parts of British Columbia and in interior parts of Vancouver Island away from the sea.

Cadoux and Petiot Hope to Join Lebrun and Doret at Yokohama

Former Two Sailed From Victoria With Their Plane Aboard Empress of Asia

"We do not yet know just which route we will take when we reach the Pacific Coast from Asia, and so it is impossible to say whether we shall fly over Victoria and land here or go right to Vancouver," said Louis Cadoux, who passed through Victoria this morning aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia, bound for Yokohama with P. H. Petiot.

At the Japanese port they will join the French fliers, Joseph Lebrun and Marcel Doret, who are now preparing to take off from Paris for Japan on a trip around the world. They also will fly down the Pacific Coast and may possibly be seen here. The party will use two planes, Cadoux said this morning. (Concluded on Page 2)

KOREA STIRRED BY OUTBREAKS

Japanese Take Protective Measures Following Killing of Number of Chinese

Canadian Press
Tokyo, July 6.—The most serious inter-racial clash in Korea in recent years led thirty-seven persons dead today and police were protecting Chinese colonies in two cities against further possible violence.

The deaths occurred at Pyongyang yesterday when a mob of Koreans, incited by inter-racial trouble July 1 at Wanshan, swept through a Chinese colony and attacked the residents with bamboo sticks. Hundreds were injured and scores of residences were destroyed. The rioters numbered 6,000 to 8,000.

Among the injured were two policemen who had attempted to protect the Chinese. More than 100 persons were arrested and the Chinese were rounded up and taken to police headquarters for their own protection.

At Chemulpo, near Seoul, rioters attacked the police stations. A mob of 2,000 Koreans, poured through the streets, attacking Chinese homes and business places. Reserves had to be called to subdue the rioters.

The trouble started July 1 when 500 Chinese attacked 280 Koreans at Wanshan because of Chinese objections to Koreans being employed on an irrigation project.

Although the trouble at Pyongyang and Chemulpo was started against the Chinese leaders of the Koreans in a number of instances endeavored to turn the outbreaks into an anti-Japanese movement.

Japanese residents in the various towns were reported taking precautionary measures to protect themselves in spite of reassurances by the authorities.

The anti-Japanese feeling was described as having been particularly ardent at Chemulpo.

Japanese authorities at Seoul, dispatches said, held numerous conferences to determine their course in the event the Koreans should take to the streets again. It was expected the civil authorities would see military aid in case the disorders should spread.

The vernacular press at Mukden, Manchuria, said General Chang Tso-hang, military governor of Kirin, instructed authorities at Changchun to endeavor to bring about peace at Wanshan.

General Chang was said to have emphasized that under the circumstances and owing to the illness of Chang Hsueh-liang, governor of Manchuria, it would be inadvisable for the Mukden to be on bad terms with the Japanese, particularly when the movement against Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Chinese Nationalist government, was growing in the northern part of China.

FRENCH FLIERS PASSED THROUGH VICTORIA TODAY

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, July 6.—This morning the French fliers passed through Victoria today. They were accompanied by J. F. B. Livesey, general manager of the Canadian Press, and George MacDonald, Quebec superintendent of the service.

Messages of sympathy and tribute continued to flow in from fellow newspapermen and friends of Mr. Raine in Canada and the United States.

The planes which the fliers took out aboard the Empress of Asia was a Dewoitine cabin monoplane with six seats, carrying six fliers and a pilot. It carries 2,100 gallons of gasoline, giving a cruising range of 6,000 miles. Since the longest haul will be from Yokohama to the Pacific Coast, a distance of 4,400 miles, the plane has a considerable margin of safety.

The fliers hope to introduce an innovation on the last leg of their flight by flying over the Pacific coast, carrying the first transatlantic shipment of mail by a heavier-than-air machine. The French aviators will have room for 400 pounds of letters in their machine. Cadou said. The mail will be carried in space which is not required for fuel, owing to the plane's unusually lengthy cruising range.

Seen in their comfortable cabin aboard the Empress of Asia this morning, the fliers were reluctant to speak about their plans for the proposed transatlantic hop. They said, however, that they were going to fly over the Pacific coast, but would not go as far as safety permits. They hoped to take off from Yokohama during the middle of August and reach New York by September. Other than this the plans of the flight were quite indefinite, they said. They could not speak for Lebrun and Doret, but suggested their plans would coincide.

Paris, July 6.—The projected Paris-Tokyo flight of the aviators Lebrun and Doret was postponed again yesterday because of unfavorable weather conditions.

Fire Destroys Gravel Bankers Near Vancouver

Vancouver, July 6.—One of the last monuments to Alvo von Alvensleben, a German war hero, was a figure in a suit and tie, standing on a pedestal, which was destroyed by a fire which broke out in an early hour this morning when the gravel bankers and an old wharf at Sunnyside Beach, near Iona Island, were destroyed.

Von Alvensleben organized a company to supply gravel to the city of Vancouver from deposits one mile from the waterfront near Sunnyside Beach. The gravel was transported by a conveyor system which was installed and the material was sluiced to the bunkers through wooden pipes. The business failed, and when war broke out was definitely closed.

COMMUNISTS SCORE NEW PLAN

Group Walks Out of Dr. Lyle Telford Meeting in Vancouver

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 6.—During an accusation of "labor faking," some 200 communists, led by Max Herndel, created an uproar by walking out of Dr. Lyle Telford's meeting in the Arena here yesterday evening. There were nearly 4,000 persons at the gathering as the communists marched out of the hall.

The general object of the exemption is not to tax the product of fishermen. This would apply not only to fresh fish; but to the many by-products and secondary phases of processing.

Dr. Telford's proposed cure for unemployment is worse than that of Hon. R. B. Bennett, who would at least grant us $1 a day," Herndel declared. "The time has come for us to split with Dr. Telford, and I ask every member of the audience who sympathizes with the communist movement to leave the meeting."

Dr. Telford passed off the incident lightly and went on to deal with the ban on radio speeches by him. "I am going to fight this thing with everything I have," he declared.

COMMUNITY FARMS

In dealing with unemployment, Dr. Telford's plan of registration of jobs and establishment of a community of unemployed on Dominion land, where produce could be raised, "Food is plentiful," he said, "and every man being shown on the prairie and only recently thousands of baby chicks were destroyed by Fraser Valley farmers because it would cost too much to raise them in this area."

Following his address, the meeting unanimously endorsed a resolution protesting against the "violation of the principle of the Dominion Land Act" by the government in refusing, directly or indirectly, to permit Dr. Telford to broadcast the message of socialism over the radio.

Holiday Toll Of Death In The U.S. 483

Auto Crashes Take 160 Lives While Independence Anniversary Crowds Celebrated

Chicago, July 6.—The largest number of Fourth of July deaths in the history of the United States as the nation celebrated the 155th anniversary of its birth.

Close to 400 persons lost their lives from various causes in the two-day celebration. Fatalities from fireworks were but six, or only one-half of what this year in 1930.

Automobile accidents and drownings were by far more numerous this year. One hundred and sixty persons, fared to the highway, perished in motor mishaps caused by the eighty-one last year, while drowning fatalities totaled 161. Almost three times as many persons lost their lives in the water as compared with 1930, when the total was sixty-seven. Twenty-four died from the heat, while fourteen were killed by the celebration.

The total of deaths from all causes as shown in reports from the entire country gathered by the Associated Press was 483. This was 394 more than died in the 1930 celebration.

Although few died from fireworks, many were injured. The mid-Atlantic States alone reported approximately 1,900 injuries from the celebration, where the sale of fireworks is forbidden, had at least 1,600.

OCEAN CASUALTIES

Los Angeles, July 6.—A possible death toll of twenty persons was conceded today by the oceanic "wides" beaches in this area July 4 and Sunday.

The holiday crowds, numbering hundreds of thousands, and spread along nearly fifty miles of winding sea coast, dispersed, lifeguards kept a close watch for bodies which may have been carried out by the oceanic currents and later released to be carried back to shore by normal action of the waves.

Seventeen persons were listed as dead on July 4, although not all of the bodies had been recovered. This toll served to warn Sunday bathers of the "wides" danger, continued, but were denied more than a possible four additional victims, persons reported missing.

On July 4 Terminal Island and Brighton Beach, between San Pedro and Long Beach, was the most tragic spot of all, nine lives being lost there. One swimmer who narrowly escaped his own life when the current caught him, said he saw at least twenty persons in distress and calling for help.

Three members of the board favored the lower tender, despite the solicitor's ruling, and five opposed it. Mayor Taylor cast the deciding vote against it.

W. Loughheed, Son Of B.C. Minister, Suffers Injuries

Crescent Beach, B.C., July 6.—Wilfred Loughheed, fifteen, son of Hon. N. Loughheed, B.C. Minister of Lands, was painfully injured Sunday afternoon when he fell overboard from an outdoor motorboat. FISH PRODUCTS EXEMPT FROM SALES LEVY

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 6.—Exemption of fish from the 4 per cent sales tax made in the House last week, applies not only to the fresh variety, but also to canned fish and such products as cod liver oil.

Officials of the Department of National Revenue said today. The bill providing the exemption has received only second reading in the Commons, and some changes may be made before it finally passes.

The general object of the exemption is not to tax the product of fishermen. This would apply not only to fresh fish; but to the many by-products and secondary phases of processing.

NEW FINANCE CONTROL BILL

Measure to Appoint Comptroller of Treasury Before Commons To-day

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 6.—Close control of the accounting of the federal revenue expenditures was the aim of a bill which was considered this afternoon by the Commons in committee. It would appoint a comptroller of the Treasury who would have accounting supervision of all incoming and outgoing money. Under the present system, each department of the government has its own accounting branch but they would be abolished by the proposed measure.

The comptroller would be directly under the Minister of Finance, Mr. Bennett said.

MANY DIFFICULTIES

The question of lapsing appropriations was raised by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader. In keeping track of appropriations whose allotments had extended past any fiscal year, the comptroller would be faced with many difficulties. He had mentioned this last year when the $20,000,000 was being voted for unemployment relief.

Mr. Bennett recalled there were three parties to the disbursement of that fund—the Dominion, the provinces and the municipalities. Contractual obligations had been incurred, the operation of which extended the period of payment beyond the fiscal year.

TWO RESCUED

Two young brothers, Roland and Leo Larroix, eleven and nine years of age, were rescued by clinging to the upper boat until rescuers could row out from the bank.

Picknicking, the Racicot and Laliberté families had gone in the morning to Main Duck Island, in the river, one-quarter mile from the Ontario shore and two miles east of the capital. Racicot had offered to take the party of youngsters for a spin in his four-wheel rowboat. All eagerly accepted.

The ill-fated boat had about reached the half-way point between the island and shore when the motor was heard to sputter and then stop. Immediately the waves caught the heavily-loaded boat and turned it into the trough of the rough waves. With each pounding of the crests, the low-riding craft shipped water and then, as the waves rose, persons helplessly stood on shore, the youthful party was thrown into the water, screaming and floundering. One by one they went, two of the elder ones in trying to help the youngsters.

CONTRACT FOR LIONS' GATE TUNNEL GIVEN

Vancouver, July 6.—Contract for construction of a pressure tunnel under the Lions' Gate was awarded today by the Greater Vancouver Water District Board to the Northern Electric Company and J. W. Stewart, whose tender was $697,144.

The tender was accepted only on the casting vote of Mayor Louis D. Taylor, chairman. The tender of Smith Brothers and Wilson, associated with the Pacific Engineers Limited, was for $699,439, and the tender of the board favored the lower tender made it illegal, declared F. R. McD. Russell, the board's solicitor, when asked for a ruling.

Five members of the board favored the lower tender, despite the solicitor's ruling, and five opposed it. Mayor Taylor cast the deciding vote against it.

Crescent Beach, B.C., July 6.—Wilfred Loughheed, fifteen, son of Hon. N. Loughheed, B.C. Minister of Lands, was painfully injured Sunday afternoon when he fell overboard from an outdoor motorboat. LIGHTNING KILLS THREE CHILDREN

Ferry Sound, Ont., July 6.—Three lives were lost yesterday evening in a violent storm of wind, rain and lightning, it was learned today. Three children of Herb Hodgins, guide on Moon River, on the north shore of Georgian Bay, were killed by a bolt of lightning which struck the Hodgins home.

At the time Mr. and Mrs. Hodgins and their ten children were in bed. The blinding flash of lightning which struck the house killed two girls, aged eight and ten years, and a boy, aged fourteen.

GLASGOW M.P. OPPOSES HOUSE SPEAKER'S RULE

Canadian Press
Glasgow, Scotland, July 6.—John McGovern, Independent Labor Party member of the Commons for Shetland, Glasgow, suspended from the House last week for the remainder of the session for disobedience to the House rules, is carrying on his fight.

McGovern was suspended after he had repeatedly tried to question the Secretary of State for Scotland in connection with the imprisonment of lay preachers who had been speaking on Glasgow Green, where meetings are forbidden.

Yesterday McGovern attempted to speak on Glasgow Green himself. A large crowd had gathered. Immediately he arose a police inspector demanded to see his permit for the meeting, and McGovern had none. The inspector took McGovern's name and those of a dozen supporters.

"If we are prosecuted and fined, the fines will not be paid by me or by anybody on my behalf," McGovern declared. He also asserted he was securing legal opinion on the action of the Speaker of the House, which he deemed illegal, because he felt the Speaker should have asked the House before allowing any servants of the House to cross the bar to lay hands on a member.

McGovern's attitude in the House had caused a brief fight between himself and colleagues on one hand and attendants of the House on the other.

FRENCH AGREE ON NEW DEBTS HOLIDAY BASIS

ance, Premier Laval requested time to consult his entire cabinet, promising Mr. Mellon an early answer.

The contents of the memorandum were not disclosed pending a decision by the cabinet, although it was understood the State Department at Washington originally had intended to release it for publication there this afternoon.

AGREEMENT EXPECTED

Washington, July 6.—Acting Secretary Cordell Hull today announced in a formal statement to-day that the United States government had "no misgivings" that the President's plan for a moratorium would become effective.

On instructions from President Hoover, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon presented to the French government to-day a new and simplified formula which President Hoover believed would meet the entire situation.

It provides France and the United States agree on a new formula for the remaining points of difference, and that all technical questions and the divergence between the two on payment of moratoriums shall be referred to technical experts.

"We have no misgivings that the President's plan will become effective," the statement said. "The French government did not accept our note of July 4, which was published July 5, as the basis for an arrangement."

NEW POINTS

"They have raised several new questions which have not been hitherto discussed, many of which involve relations between the signatories to the Young plan, to which we are not a party, and which of course we cannot pretend to be able to negotiate."

Washington dispatches yesterday evening told how President Hoover had rejected the French plan to give unlimited freedom of action to technical experts who would work out the details of an intergovernmental debt moratorium.

HOW IT WORKS OUT

In effect, the payments in kind operate as follows:

A French builder is constructing a steel plant in Germany. He buys steel from a German merchant. The German Government pays the German merchant for the steel. The French buyer in turn pays the French Government for the steel. Thus the German Government actually pays out money and the French treasury receives it indirectly.

The United States was willing that type of payment be continued, but it contended the money must be returned to Germany. A similar contention was offered and accepted when France proposed Germany should pay unconditional annuities under the Young Plan. President Hoover felt the technical experts who would be called on to work out this and other details, however, must be instructed to adhere to the spirit of the United States

MAN DIES AT BEACH

Vancouver, July 6.—Charles Wilde, 4459 Walden Street, dropped dead Sunday evening at Spanish Banks while watching bathers. He is believed to have suffered a stroke. Mr. Wilde was seated on a bench with his son-in-law and daughter, with whom he lived. The city fire department's inhalator crew was called, but death is believed to have been almost instantaneous.

VIOLANT DEATHS IN ONTARIO 112

Canadian Press
Toronto, July 6.—In Ontario in the week ended yesterday evening, 112 persons died as results of accidents or of heat prostrations. Never before in the history of the province had heat and water taken such a heavy toll in seven days.

Since Sunday night, a week ago, sixty persons were drowned. Heat deaths numbered twenty-nine in the same period. Automobile accidents were responsible for ten deaths. Aviation claimed six lives. Seven persons died from other causes. In addition, two bodies were recovered at the weekend.

The great heat wave which swept the province during the last four or five days was chiefly responsible for the toll of death, but two major accidents took thirteen lives. Five were killed on Dominion Day in a plane crash at Hamilton. Eight were drowned in the murky depths of the Ottawa River when a boat capsized, and hundreds were injured during the week in automobile and other accidents.

Since Sunday night, a week ago, sixty persons were drowned. Heat

SIX KILLED IN PLANE CRASH IN CALIFORNIA

George Ritchie, San Francisco Golf Star, and Five Others Lose Lives

Lucerne, Lake County, Cal., July 6.—George Ritchie, San Francisco golf star, four other men and a woman were killed in an airplane crash here yesterday.

Jack Kerrigan and Leon Keller, both well-known in San Francisco golf circles, were two of the other men killed. Louis M. Becker, fifty-five, president of Clear Lake Beach Company, millionaire and former Los Angeles man, and his fiancée, Mrs. Zigmunda Lax, thirty-five, Long Beach, were killed in the crash.

The pilot, Wm. Hoffman, Lucerne, was the fifth man who met death. The plane in which they were riding took off for a sight-seeing trip over the lake district. The motor cut out about two miles from Lucerne and the plane crashed into a mountainside with terrific force. The five men were killed instantly, but Mrs. Lax lived for thirty minutes.

The plane had been in the air about twenty minutes when the crash occurred. It was completely demolished.

The three golfers, with George Horan, another prominent golfer of San Francisco, had been playing exhibition matches over the holiday at Lucerne. When the matches were completed, Becker asked them to be his guests in a sight-seeing trip over the lake.

Horan refused to make the flight, stating before the take-off, "I'll take a rain check on my flight."

Mrs. Lax, to whom Becker was to have been married soon, is survived by a seven-year-old daughter, Josephine, who was staying with her mother at the Lucerne Hotel.

PAUSE IN ARMY MOVES IN SOUTH CHINA REGION

Canadian Press
Hongkong, July 6.—An unusual exodus of officials from Canton during the week-end, combined with a manifest apathy on the part of the populace regarding the southern insurrection, interested observers today as to the probable outcome of the Nanking-Canton quarrel.

Eugene Chen and Sun Po, insurance leaders, went to Macao, allegedly to visit relatives in the hinterland while the leftist leader, Wang Ching-wei, came to Hongkong, where the leftist general, Chiang Kai-shek, has been staying for some days pleading illness. Canton maintains a rigid censorship and it was not understood here what this move meant. Opinion here is that the populace is tiring of the quarrel.

A few Nationalist Government troops in southern Hunan Province have declared themselves for the southerners. This may make the threatened advance of the Kwangsi troops on Changsa easier. However, Ho Chien, governor of Hunan, who the Canton leaders had hoped to win to their cause, was remaining loyal to Nanking and to date there has been no sign of any appreciable support for Canton from the northern provinces.

DECEPTION UNCOVERED

It is generally believed General Chang Chai-long had been deceived by promises of support from the northern provinces, and acted prematurely at Hu Han-min's instigation in starting an advance. Owing to floods the Nineteenth Nationalist Army has moved northward away from the Kwangsi border, thus relieving some anxiety, but observers here point out there seems to be something sinister about the quiet preparations of the Nationalist President, Chiang Kai-shek. Though Canton professes confidence in the outcome of its insurrection, the feeling is prevalent that the Canton movement will collapse as soon as Chiang Kai-shek definitely moves on Canton.

A prominent Canton general was quoted here as saying the southerners would declare war on Nanking within a fortnight, but this is discredited because of the floods throughout Kwangtung. Hundreds of small villages are inundated and Canton itself is partially covered with water. Rice crops in many districts have been destroyed, while at Samsul, a dam burst despite desperate efforts of farmers to reinforce it with bags of rice. The floods would make military movements most difficult and war trench works in many parts of the province have already been obliterated.

Police Recover Many Cigarettes

Vancouver, July 6.—The detective office at police headquarters was piled high yesterday with boxes containing 75,000 cigarettes valued at $750, an automobile, said to have been stolen, was held in the police yard and a Chinese was under arrest, following a chase early in the morning by Constables J. Kelly and E. Pearce.

The officers, detailed to plain clothes prowler duty, reported they had observed an automobile in the lane between the 300 block of Hastings and Pender Streets. Three men, they stated, ran from it as the officers drove up.

Investigation showed the car to be filled with boxes containing thousands of cigarettes. One man, a Chinese, was arrested after a short chase. He was held for investigation. The automobile, officers said, later was reported stolen. Detectives expected to have the seized goods identified to-day. They were believed to come from a wholesale tobacco firm whose premises were burglarized recently.

POLICE KEEP ORDER

Calgary, July 6.—Calgary police stood by yesterday evening for disorders that failed to materialize. Two hundred members of the National Unemployed workers' Association gathered in the centre of the city to hold a mass meeting in protest against police action in arresting a dozen members of their organization during a disturbance last Monday. Police ordered the crowd off the streets, and the meeting was resumed on a vacant lot a few blocks from the city police station. Speakers at the gathering, which concluded without trouble, charged police with being brutal.

FIVE ROBBERIES IN VANCOUVER

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 6.—Several cases of robbery with violence were reported to the police of Vancouver during the week-end.

George Coater, Stanley Hotel, 21 Cordova Street West, told police two men he had met earlier in the evening assaulted him Saturday at 11:30 o'clock on Keefer Street, near Main Street, robbing him of $25, which they obtained by extracting from his sock after taking off his shoes.

T. Callaway, 1380 Thirteenth Avenue East, alleged he was attacked by two men he had met in a cafe and robbed of $7. The assault, he said, took place in a lane at the rear of the 100 block of Hastings Street East, Sunday at 1:40 a.m.

Two young men held up L. Acton, 2234 Second Avenue West, Saturday, shortly before 10 p.m. in a lane at the rear of the 200 block of Abbott Street, taking an unstated amount.

Stanley Silcock, Dunlevy Rooms, 143 Dunlevy Avenue, older aboard the C.N. steamer Prince Robert, complained to the police he was strongarmed at the rear of a hotel in the 400 block of Powell Street, losing $18.50. Three men, he asserted, attacked him early Sunday morning.

Ge. Lye, 442 Marine Drive Road, was held up at noon Saturday in his truck at the corner of Fifty-first Avenue and Nanaimo Street by three men, one of them armed. He lost $50. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

WHEAT EXPORT COMMITTEE IN SESSION TO-DAY

By George Humbleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

London, July 6.—The ten principal wheat exporting nations of the world were represented at a preliminary meeting to-day of the continuing committee of the conference of wheat exporting countries which met in May.

The meeting was held in Canada House under the chairmanship of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in Great Britain, who was chairman of the larger conference. In its resolutions of May 23, the conference of exporting nations decided to create a continuing committee, the purpose of which would be:

1. Establishment of a clearing house of information.

2. To explore all possible avenues for greater utilization of wheat.

3. Consideration of the draft agenda for the next conference.

To-day's discussions, it is understood, were confined to ways and means of giving effect to the conference resolutions.

The countries represented were Canada, Australia, Argentina, Bulgaria, Hungary, India, Poland, Roumania, Soviet Russia and the United States.

CHINESE LOSE LIVES IN MOB FIGHTS IN KOREA

Tokio, July 6.—The Colonial Office confirmed dispatches to the Japanese newspaper to Nitchi Nitchi, stating twenty-eight Chinese, including one woman, had been killed and more than 300 injured yesterday evening in anti-Chinese rioting at Pinyang, Korea.

The Nitchi Nitchi said also at least 300 Chinese homes had been destroyed.

Seoul, Korea, July 6.—Korean mobs attacked several Chinese villages at the outskirts of Seoul, injuring many, according to the police, in retaliation for recent trouble over irrigation rights at Wanpaoshan, near Changchun.

A band of 500 Chinese on July 1 attacked 200 Koreans, injuring many, at Wanpaoshan, because the Chinese objected to Koreans being employed on irrigation works. A Chinese dam was destroyed along with several Korean houses.

Korean leaders Saturday, police charged, incited mobs into action against the Chinese. The mobs pounced on Chinese villages, attacking the occupants with bamboo sticks. Nearly 1,500 Chinese took refuge in the Chinese consulate here, while several hundred women and children assembled at the Chamber of Commerce building.

Special detachments of police were sent to the troubled areas with orders to round up the radical organization leaders who were said to be responsible for inciting the Koreans to swoop down on Chinese farm houses. One hundred and twenty Koreans were arrested.

Police reserves were sent out early yesterday at Chemulpo to subdue 2,000 rioters who roamed the streets, attacking Chinese homes and restaurants as a result of the irrigation dispute.

ABOUT FERTILIZERS

By JOHN HUTCHISON, F.R.H.S.

Fertilizers may be divided into five sections under the heads of animal, vegetable, mineral, chemical and domestic.

Animal fertilizer is the product of the farmyard and stable and when it is procured in a well-rotted state, it is the best for general purposes. Horse manure is best for heavy soils while cow manure is best for light soils.

For heavy soil, dig in as much straw with the manure as possible, as this tends to lighten and break it up. Sheep manure is very valuable on all soils and has the advantage of carrying very few weed seeds. Fowl manure should be used with caution and should be mixed with an equal amount of sand, after it has been dried, before it is applied to the land. Blood and bone are valuable and the bone is particularly rich in phosphates.

Vegetable manures are not used as much as they should be. It is safe to say that anything produced by the land in the course of cultivation may be safely returned to it in the form of fertilizer. Weeds may be dug into the soil and will contribute considerable plant food. It is best to collect all the vegetable matter that accumulates from time to time in the garden, such as vegetable leaves, grass clippings, weeds and so on, and place them in a heap or in a pit and let them decompose. The resulting compost will be found an excellent fertilizer and may be used in conjunction with bone meal, or some chemical fertilizer.

LEAVES ARE VALUABLE

Leaf soil or leaf mould is simply decayed leaves. Leaves may be collected when they fall from the trees and treated in the same way as the vegetable rubbish. Oak leaves are among the best for making high-grade leaf mould. It is a wonderful plant food.

When ordinary farmyard manure cannot be obtained, the soil may be enriched by sowing a crop of mustard, vetches, rye grass or clover, and when it has reached a reasonable height, ploughing it in. If one would reserve a plot in the garden each year and have a garden that is in good tilth, it is in this way, one would soon have a garden that is in good tilth.

Seaweed, which is a vegetable in itself, although it causes the soil to be a fertilizer, and is rich in potash. It should be gathered and stacked in alternate layers with soil and allowed to decompose before applying it to the land.

WOOD FERTILIZERS

Of mineral fertilizers, ashes of wood are valuable, being rich in potash. Charcoal is also valuable as being a soil sweetener. Lime is used for soil that is sour, but is not a fertilizer in itself, although it causes the soil to give up the plant food already there and makes it available to the plants. Soot is useful as a fertilizer and as an insecticide in small quantities.

It should not be used, however, unless it has been kept for some time. Sand, while not a fertilizer, is good to use on heavy soils to break them up. The same may be said of mortar rubble.

Salt may be used in small quantities on certain crops with good results. What are known as chemical manures are such as nitrate of soda, which promotes leaf growth, and is good for plants like cabbage. Sulphate of ammonia is not quite as quick-acting as nitrate of soda, but may be used for the same purpose. Superphosphate and basic slag are other chemicals which may be used.

While all the above-named may be used in their pure state, the quantity that can safely be applied is so small that most gardeners prefer to use one of the chemical mixtures that are now so freely sold. These mixtures, under various trade names, are built up on different formulas for various purposes and one can purchase a kind that will suit the particular object in view. These are all manufactured under government supervision and the analysis is attached to each bag or package. On the whole, for the average gardener, this is the best way to apply chemicals to the land.

RULES FOR MANURE USE

Domestic manures consist of soap-suds, waste foods and so on, and have some value. They should be mixed with the compost heap. The following ten precepts were written by a very old gardener in respect to manure.

1. Manure can never take the place of good cultivation.

2. The better the culture the less will be the quantity of manure needed.

3. Do not neglect to apply lime once in three years.

4. Manure can only be used on a plant that is healthy.

5. Light, air, warmth and water are even more essential to a plant when manure has to be assimilated.

6. Do not manure in contact with a plant's roots.

7. Do not manure seedlings or cuttings.

8. Do not apply manure during the flowering or ripening period.

9. Do not cram the plant or crop.

10. Let the motto in application be "little and often."

BEAUTIFY THE CAPITAL

THE EXPENDITURE ON PUBLIC works which is to be made by the Dominion, province and municipality in connection with unemployment relief, should be employed, as far as Victoria is concerned, in the development of some effectively organized plan for the beautification of the city as the capital of British Columbia. Probably never again will an opportunity present itself for a project of this kind under conditions as favorable as those which have arisen in the present economic situation. The total sum to be appropriated by the three authorities for relief work will be enough to provide for a really imposing programme of improvement, more, in fact, than it would be possible to provide for in normal conditions over a period of years.

There could be no outside criticism of provincial or Dominion money being used for this purpose, since every municipality in the country will receive assistance of this kind, and the money will have to be spent in some way in any case. Here is the chance of a life-time to carry out a proposal which has been aired many times in municipal and provincial circles; for which, indeed, the local government has been asked to make a grant, but which involved certain considerations of provincial government policy that kept the scheme outside the scope of practical possibility.

It ought to be possible for a committee composed of representatives of the government, municipality, public service organization, and competent citizens like Mr. F. C. Pemberton, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart, Mr. C. C. Pemberton, and others experienced in matters of this kind, to devise a programme of beautification in harmony with the natural setting of the city, and one which would not involve a large annual outlay for maintenance. For instance, we have many eye-sores which would not be tolerated in most other communities on this coast. The waterfront from Johnson Street bridge for several hundred yards southward is a positive disgrace, while the rows of old buildings east of it are shrieking for a coat or two of paint and a little other attention to relieve their dinginess. The Dallas Road foreshore for a long stretch could be easily converted into a thing of beauty, and there are numerous other points which could be changed for the better beyond recognition with some well-planned handiwork.

As it would take some time to prepare an adequate programme of civic improvement, it would be necessary for a competent committee in co-operation with technical officers of the province and municipality to take the matter in hand without delay. In any case, the opportunity for translating some of our talk about capital beautification into practical action seems to be at hand.

A DECLINING POPULATION?

POPULATION GROWTH AS BETWEEN Germany and France is the subject of an interesting comparison by Dr. Ernst Kahn, the distinguished German population expert, who begins his article with the reminder that Germany has a population of 64,000,000 as against France's 41,000,000. He points out that the French figures have remained more or less stationary for many years past—a fact which is constantly present in the minds of the French general staff—while the German figures have rapidly increased. Dr. Kahn thinks this contrast has lain at the root of the nervousness of France toward her eastern neighbor, and for some time has affected the whole trend of her foreign policy and system of alliances.

Strange as it may seem on the face of it, Dr. Kahn argues by implication that Germany's position as the country which is specially prolific in offspring will shortly be a thing of the past, that the country's population will decline and decline rapidly. To prove this theory, he makes a comparison of the number of children formerly born to a single wedded couple, and those that are born to-day. Whereas only a few decades back this number might have been estimated at four, to-day the average number of children per family has dropped to 1.9. Statistically, Dr. Kahn says that in order to insure the maintenance of the population at the same level it would be necessary for every two persons to reproduce roughly three; by which he presumably means that account must be taken of those who remain celibate, and of the deaths which occur between birth and the age of marriage. According to his figures, approximately forty per cent of post-war marriages in Germany are estimated to be childless, and at least twenty per cent have produced only one or two children.

It is obvious that Dr. Kahn is not especially concerned with the possible political effects this decline in Germany's population may eventually have. The question is asked, however, what if the natural fall that the foresees should be counterbalanced by the effect of some political combination, such as, for example, the union of 6,500,000 German-speaking Austrians? It would be stretching the point too far to suggest that the authors of the Austro-German customs union had this in mind. That was purely an economic proposal; at the same time, it is not altogether irrelevant to the matter. France, of course, remembers, one commentator observes, that the customs union of the independent German states led, as its author intended it to lead, to the political union which we now know as the German republic.

MINERAL PRODUCTION OF CANADA

CANADA'S MINERAL PRODUCTION amounted to $278,470,563 in 1930. This is a decrease of 10.4 per cent from the 1929 record of $310,850,246 but $3,481,076 above 1928. More gold, copper, zinc, natural gas, petroleum, stone and sand and gravel were produced than ever before, and the silver and lead output exceeded that of the previous year, but the production of coal, asbestos, gypsum, salt, clay products, cement and lime were all lower than in 1929. Metals as a group totalled $142,949,293 compared with $154,454,056 in 1929. This drop in value is accounted for by the drastic reduction in metal prices during the year. On account of the lower output of coal during 1930 the value of the fuel group at $67,888,334 showed a decline of 11.6 per cent. Petroleum production, however, increased by 33.5 per cent in quantity and 32.7 per cent in value over the previous year. Other non-metals, the principal items of which were asbestos, gypsum, salt, sulphur, quartz and sodium sulphate, were valued at $15,227,689, a decrease of 27.8 per cent from 1929. Structural materials, comprising cement, lime, clay products, stone and sand and gravel, were valued at $52,405,247, compared with $58,534,834 in 1929.

Figures of total production by themselves, however, fail to convey a correct impression of the magnitude of the mining industry in Canada. Among the basic industries of the Dominion, mining stands third, being exceeded only by agriculture and forestry. In 1929 some $870,000,000 was invested in this industry; more than 95,000 men were employed in operating the mines, smelters, oil and gas wells, brick plants and quarries, who received $125,000,000 in salaries and wages, and these figures do not include the expenditure of the many prospecting and exploration companies. In addition to the mining of known ore bodies, and the resulting metallurgical operations, prospecting in the outlying areas of the Dominion has been carried forward to a much greater degree than formerly. The development of the airplane has provided an agent of improved and rapid transportation in regions where the canoe, dog team and pack horse were the only other means available, while exploration and photography from the air are providing accurate knowledge and reliable maps of large areas that hitherto were almost entirely unexplored.

HE GOT HIS DESSERTS

SOONER OR LATER THE LONG ARM of justice falls with a thud upon the shoulders of the law-breaker. Many will recall that when the famous Clarence Hatry was arrested for fraud in Great Britain one of his associates, an Italian named Gialdini, removed himself as quickly as possible to his native land, expecting that under the existing complicated extradition agreements between Great Britain and Italy he would be able to escape the consequences of his fraudulent association with Hatry and his financial ventures. But it appears that the government of Mussolini did not feel disposed to give him the benefit of any technicalities or to assist him to avoid a just penalty. The Italian courts have recently tried Gialdini and sentenced him to five years in prison.

It is eighteen months since Clarence Hatry exchanged a life of luxury, made possible by the use of other people's money, for a fourteen-year tenancy in the penitentiary. He has had time to think of the misery he brought to many people who trusted him with their money. If Gialdini thought he had escaped his share of the punishment which he had merited, the Italian courts have effectively disillusioned him. His sentence, incidentally, is a striking reminder that there are very few places in the civilized world to-day to which the criminal may repair and cheat justice. It is this wholesome fact which eventually will secure greater respect for the law than appears to be the case in some countries. It is not fair to our civilization to suggest that it is the fear of punishment which makes people behave. In all but a very small number there is an inherent desire to live decently.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

CLIMBING IN AND CLIMBING OUT

The Toronto Star

Just as Canada is about to plunge unreservedly into tariff protection most of the other nations begin to blame it for their troubles and are trying to climb out. At Geneva a few days ago Italy, France, Germany and Austria discussed the question, each in turn declaring that the system of high tariffs between the various countries had been harmful to all concerned. As soon as Austria and Germany proposed an arrangement whereby tariff barriers between them should be pulled down all the neighboring nations became envious and wanted the agreement cancelled unless they could, on satisfactory terms, be let in to share, to some extent, the benefits.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS

The Three Rivers Nouvelleiste

The province of Quebec contributes heavily to the federal revenue. If the proportion of old-age pensions paid by Ottawa jumps from 50 to 75 per cent, it is clear that she shall find herself contributing a heavy share to the cost of the maintenance of old people in the other provinces. It is estimated that of the nine millions which the federal treasury will pay for old-age pensions, under the new regime, three millions will come from the pockets of the taxpayers of our province. Justice demands that the federal authorities assume the entire cost of old-age pensions or that, if they must be a charge on the provinces, the latter should undertake to pay the whole cost.

JUNE MADNESS

The New York Herald-Tribune

After the seed catalogues, the travel books satiated with Utopia in the backyard, or already disillusioned concerning the size and splendor of our bargain bulbs, we enjoy far lands. Ten minutes' reading takes us to the snow-clad Alps, glittering perpetually in a rosy sunset glow, or to Venice, where the Grand Canal offers romantic promise in eternal moonlight. Or, disinterested this year for open travel, we decide to explore the vastnesses of the United States and Canada, with Mexico thrown in for nothing extra. By stage coach and fast motor we achieve heroic heights and look down upon a continent, or we trust our lives to a sure-footed old horse well broken to tourist reins, whose foot has never slipped yet. The mountain lakes resemble those of Switzerland (without the castles) in that they reflect eternally a snowy, distant peak, and in the meadows beside the glacier trail plants spread a blanket in blue. Unmarred by picnic bananas, or gasoline fumes, or heat, or dust, or tire troubles, the broad roads lure us on from New York or Seattle, criss-crossing the country as we will. Near by the rural prospect pleases. Shall we summer in Maine, where fir trees catch the dash spray or unfurl our white sails on the vineyard's smoother waters? Shall we golf, or dance, or cast a fly where the fighting bass lurk hungry? Come, come! We cannot dwell forever in this tourist paradise. Vacation time approaches. We must decide between Scotland and Nova Scotia—between the Taj Mahal and the Ocean View House.

Loose Ends

Concerning Walkathons — Intellectuals and the lack of them—the decline of thought—the falling-off of Mr. Bruhn—and the boys by the roadside.

By H. B. W.

THE PROVINCIAL health authorities, a few of the public, and a few of the effect of walkathons on physical health. This is interesting, out not as interesting as the intellectual aspect of this matter. I do not mean that I am concerned about the effect of walkathons on the intellects of our competitors. On this score there is no need to worry, for there is nothing to worry about. There is no particular reason, either, why any people shouldn't keep on walking forever, as far as I can see, provided they just keep on walking; but the trouble and danger is that these people, after the walkathons are over, will go out and have families, reproduce more of their kind, exercise the franchise, elect governments, cause wars. But even that is not the worst aspect of the matter.

THE WORST aspect of the matter is the public mentality which the walkathons reflect. They reflect a mentality, a civilization which is rapidly losing the power of thought. They show that the world is all cluttered up with people who want to be in walkathons, whose proper place is in walkathons and nowhere else. There is an alarming symptom of the intellectual decay of the race. If they were performed by savages, by our native Indians, for instance, we would be horrified, we would form missionary societies and pass laws, and we would stamp them out ruthlessly as we have stamped out much more sensible and harmless Indian customs; but in our own civilization we don't stamp them out because we are not as thoughtful as savages, we haven't the savage's mental capacity.

YOU MAY say that this is an exaggeration, but if you will think about it you will see that it is quite true. As a matter of fact, we have intellectual resources far in advance of the savages, but the majority, the mass who enter walkathons and permit them to continue, only know a little more about certain subjects than savages know. They don't think as much because they are not required to. There is more constructive thought required to make a fish trap, to carve a totem pole or tan a hide than there is to get up in the morning in a civilized country, eat breakfast, drive an automobile to town and enter a walkathon.

IT COULD be demonstrated, indeed, that the more civilized men become, the larger cities they create, the less they think and the less they are capable of thought. The average farmer in Sanseich can think far more clearly than the average clerk in New York. The clerk in New York merely moves faster because of the machinery created here to move him, and the essential change against him is that he had nothing to do with the creation of the machinery and doesn't understand it, whereas the farmer of Sanseich, though his job may seem less spectacular, is doing it for himself. You have to think to grow good cabbages, and indeed I sometimes think the average culture of cabbages beyond my wide intellectual scope. For even I am affected by the civilization in which we live, and it is the civilization of walkathons; the civilization in which men have ceased to walk for the purpose of locomotion and have instead been inhibited tired bodies and bankrupt minds to other people similarly impoverished.

THIS IS a bad day, for I am also appalled by the horrible revelation just made concerning Minister of Public Works Bruhn, who everywhere is credited with being one of the best men in the government and in the Conservative Party of British Columbia. Liberals as well as Conservatives like Mr. Bruhn, whatever they may think about his government. He came down here from the woods of the interior with all the strength and freshness of those pine woods where he had started life as a logger, and where he had become a successful lumber operator. Now, behold, it is revealed in a Vancouver paper that since coming to Victoria he has taken up golf. This is really too bad.

YOU MAY say that essentially there is no real difference between swinging an axe in the fragrant pine woods of the interior and swinging a maul on the fairways of Colwood. In an obvious physical sense you are probably right. I suppose if Mr. Bruhn were to play, say a hundred holes a day he might get as much good out of it as he used to get in chopping down a dozen pine trees; which would mean that he would have to play golf about twenty hours a day, every day of the week, to keep in the physical condition which is required of an interior logger. He could hardly do that and earn his ministerial salary, but let it pass. It is of another, more important, aspect of the matter that I would speak. It is not the physical but the intellectual weight in society. Bruhn is swinging a golf club in the physical condition which is required of an interior logger. It is the spiritual falling-off of Mr. Bruhn that interests me.

THERE IS a primitive nobility in swinging an axe in the woods to make a living, because in so doing a man is producing his quota of goods for the human family, carrying his own weight in society. But in swinging a golf club he is producing nothing. The world would be just as well off if he stayed home, a great deal better off if he stayed home and grew cabbages, as I do. In swinging a golf club he is merely proving that he needs exercise because he is one of the great class which never produces anything and of which I am (apart from cabbages) an undistinguished member. It is distressing, therefore, to see a perfectly good woodsman and a respected minister of state becoming a fourth or fifth-class golfer (for I am glad to say that

"DOES LAST LONGER"

Mr. Bruhn's golf is reported as pretty bad.

IT IS distressing, but I don't just see what can be done about it. I mean we can't afford to provide enough trees around the Parliament Buildings to keep Mr. Bruhn swinging an axe in his spare time, and while Minister of Agriculture Atkinson is reported in the Vancouver press as having found some in cutting down the trees in the empty lot next door, we can't grow enough weeds merely to keep our government healthy. ## Piles All Gone

Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and cutting fail because only an internal medicine can actually correct these conditions. Dr. J. S. Leonard discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in 999 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. McFarlane and Vancouver Stores sell one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must and your Pile misery or money back. ## HEAT BRINGS ADDED HAZARD

Forestry Protection Officials
Alert to Keep Down Toll
of Fires

After several weeks respite through damp conditions, forestry officials today foresaw a serious forest fire hazard during the week as a heat wave covered a large part of the province. As the Pacific Northwest collected an aftermath of the scorching suffered by the middle west of the United States, hazardous conditions were expected to become general.

Last week only forty-five new outbreaks were reported, all being of a small nature. These brought the total for the year to 946, as compared with 455 at this time last year, and 543 in 1929.

From Far Bagdad Comes Little Girl To See Grandparents

When little girls are very, very good their conduct is usually rewarded, perhaps with a new doll or toy, or perhaps, as in the case of Mary Louise, who arrived Saturday on board the Liberian Duchess, a visit to "Gramma." Because Mary Louise has been exceptionally good recently she has been allowed to accompany her mother, Mrs. A. H. Macfarlane, and her little brother, aged two years, all the way from Bagdad to visit her grandparents in Vancouver and Victoria. Mrs. Macfarlane's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Rolston, 1355 West Twelfth, Vancouver.

Bagdad, to Mary Louise, is just like any other city. The picturesque mosques and the colorful populace of that mystic city have no appeal to Mary Louise; she would rather be out here where "Gramma" is, she said.

She is a sturdy youngster of four summers, enjoyed the seven weeks' trip from her new home in Bagdad, but nothing impressed her so much as renewing acquaintance with her grandparents.

Mary Louise's father is Major A. H. Macfarlane, formerly of Victoria, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Macfarlane, 1009 Cook Street. After going through the schools here and in the east, and then distinguishing himself in the war, Major Macfarlane went to Mesopotamia with a group of civil engineers carrying on development works for the British government.

Sooke

The regular monthly meeting of the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute was held in the Sooke Hall on Friday afternoon, July 3. There were twelve members present, the president, Mrs. G. H. Jones, occupying the chair. Two new members were welcomed. An interesting talk was given by Mrs. J. D. Gordon, president of the Island District Branch on Institute Work and Methods. Mrs. V. B. Macfarlane, superintendent of Women's Institutes, also visited the meeting. A lengthy discussion followed as to ways and means of holding a community picnic during the month of August. Arrangements were left in the hands of Mrs. C. Thompson and Mrs. C. A. Helgeson, who will make a further report of the matter to the executive. Among the correspondence read by the secretary was a letter from the Esquimalt rural nursing service stating that the services of Miss H. Kelly, district nurse, would be available during the coming year at the same rate as previously said. This matter will be discussed later. The meeting adjourned and tea was served by Mrs. P. Grainger, Mrs. C. Thompson, Mrs. A. Clark and Mrs. O. H. Jones.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Holy Trinity Church to the M.S.C.C. will be held at the home of Mrs. (Capt.) H. R. Robertson, "Shawadine," Saanich, on Wednesday afternoon, July 8.

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICE HART

Glowing, vital-looking hair is a sign of good health. It also is the loveliest possible asset for this thing called beauty.

Whether you wear it long or short, whether it curls or is straight, it is as important as its color. It actually is more important, since it is so easy to change the color to-day.

Several things go into the beauty of well-kept hair. They are all somewhat dependent upon your body condition. But the majority of hair ills are due to carelessness and neglect. Split hair, dull hair; stringiness, roughness, lack-lustre—all are apt to be your own fault.

NEEDS EARLY CARE
The right time to begin taking care of your hair is in the cradle. That neglected, you can start now and even with a couple of decades or more handicap, you can do a lot to improve the condition of it.

You will have to brush it morning and night, massage your scalp once a day with a good tonic, perhaps rub some good nourishing oil into it twice a week, or give yourself hot-oil shampoo.

To take good care of your hair and scalp you need an excellent brush, or even two. For you should use an absolutely clean brush every day, and if you have two and alternate in washing and using them, it is a help.

USE GOOD BRUSHES
Whalebone brushes are excellent for some heads. If your hair is fine and your scalp sensitive, do not consider one. Get a brush with fine, deep bristles, one of the better class brushes that has its bristles put in in graduated lengths so that they cleave the hair and reach the scalp.

An investment in one of these brushes may set you back about $10, but they last a long time. However, there are many substitutes for these high-grade brushes that are good.

A locomotive driven by air compressed by a Diesel engine is a recent German invention.

YOUR BABY and MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

BABY SELDOM ACCEPTS NEW TASTES WILLINGLY

We should not expect that a baby who has been fed for many months on breast milk will leap with avidity to a bottle of fluid so different in taste as cow's milk. Yet mothers, concerned with weaning the baby, are completely stumped when the young hopeful turns up his nose at a bottle or cup of milk and demands his familiar rations.

Mrs. R. W. R. is struggling with her baby's reluctance to accept the new food. "He eats his cereal, three table-spoonful, and enjoys it," she says. "He takes his fruit juice heartily and he likes when he has had about one table-spoonful. He refuses milk, also his puree of vegetables entirely. I have tried giving him a bottle of cup or spoon, sweetened and unsweetened, warm and cold. It is all to no avail. He like baked custard, though."

"His morning nap lasts from one and one-half to two hours, but he never sleeps in the afternoon and cries from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. and again at his bedtime at 7 p.m. Is there any substitute for his milk? Would you advise me to continue nursing him until the end of September when we get back from our vacation? He is eight months old."

POSTPONEMENT WON'T HELP
If the baby of eight months is already so firmly wedded to nursing that he refuses another form of feeding, that tendency would only strengthen in several months. You

TWO DOLLARS AND FAMILY PAY PLAN FOR RELIEF WORK

The British Columbia government plans to make an allowance to unemployed on relief work in government camps of good housing, good board and $1 a day for single, $2 a day for married men, and a separation allowance for their families, it was learned before Premier Tomin left for Calgary, where he will confer with members of the Alberta Legislature to-day.

British Columbia's plans are tentative, and will not be confirmed until Alberta's views are secured. Premier Tomin will consult Premier Brownlee on the advisability of calling a conference of the provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba to consider uniform relief measures for the west.

Waffle Desserts
When planning summer meals, don't forget waffles for dessert, topped by a nice mound of moussé or ice cream. You only need a salad or sliced cuts and greens when you have such a substantial dessert.

Diction Competition Here Is Designed To Improve Speech

An interesting diction competition took place at the studio of the Victoria School of Expression on Saturday evening, the event being the last meeting of the students for the season. After introducing H. A. Beckwith as presiding judge, Mrs. Wilfrid Ord gave a short address, in which she pointed out that the purpose of the diction competition was to unite everyone in a love for beautiful speech and a desire to preserve the finest spoken English.

The speaker commented on the careless manner in which English was spoken all over the world, and added that the advent of the "talkies" was resulting in increased attention being given to the question of speech.

Mrs. Ord concluded by giving examples of cockney and other dialects, pointing out that though interesting as dialect and worthy of preservation as such, they must not be confused with good speech. Neither should illiteracy from one part of the Empire be allowed to take root in another. Mrs. Ord cited "the inverted R" as an example of this.

The following competed and were classified as follows:

Grade "A," 90 per cent and over—Naomi Taylor, W. McPhail, Miss Rhodes, Clemency Ord, Miss Burman, Eileen Davis, Lerna Barker, Opal Abercrombie, Mrs. Burke, Clarence Kirchin, Mrs. Clowes, Barbara Clowes, Sylvia Monckton.

Grade "B," 75 to 89 per cent—T. MacMartin, Miss Seale, Miss Pope, Joan Monckton, May Clarke, Miss Burman, Mrs. Wilson, Mr. Pinnemore, Leslie Clarke, Miss Sunderland, Miss Brown, George Little, Miss Cicero.

Grade "C," 65 to 74 per cent—Mrs. Brown-Constable, Mrs. Little, Miss Parker.

During the evening prizes were presented to Katharine Youdal and Eileen Davis.

DON CAMPBELL BEATS GORDON IN NET FINAL

Captures Singles Crown in Victoria Club Tournery By 6-8, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4 Victory
McCallum and Gordon Win Open Doubles; H. Boale Wins Handicap Singles

Playing his usual steady tennis, Don Campbell defeated Marsh Gordon in four sets to take the men's singles championship in the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club's annual tournament Saturday. Campbell dropped the first set at 8-6, and took the next three at 6-0, 6-2, 6-4. Campbell played great tennis throughout the week, defeating on the way to the finals J. C. I. Edwards, defending champion, and Steve Jones, hard-hitting local youngster.
The women's final will be played at a later date, as Helen Campbell, one of the finalists, had the misfortune to suffer a leg injury on Friday. This young lady will meet sister Mary, when all is well again.
Gordon seemed to play all out in the first set of the men's final with his placements bringing him victory at 8-6. The second set was Campbell's throughout, with Gordon's playing falling away when he seemed to lose his sense of timing. His inability to put the ball away when he caught his opponent out of position cost him many sure points in this set, while Campbell made very few errors. The second final set saw the winner display fine tennis with Gordon forcing the play and being outdistanced by his opponent.

VETERAN PAIR WIN
McCallum and Gordon, Victoria's strong doubles team, took the men's doubles by defeating Campbell and Isaacs in three sets, losing the first at 4-6 and taking the last two at 6-1, 6-0.
The men's handicap singles went to Harvey Boale, who defeated Bob Schwenger, 6-3, 6-0, while the women's handicap event went to Grace Gray, who defeated M. Noble, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, the lower being forced to retire in the third set.
The handicap doubles events saw Kirkbride and Backler win the men's, defeating Boale and Brand, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, and Miss Ryall and Miss Hamble, the women's, defeating Mrs. Knox and Miss Lawson, 1-6, 7-5, 6-4, while Doreen Swayne and Kirkbride came through in the mixed, winning from Mary Campbell and Isaacs in three sets.

Lull in Boxing Card This Week

New York, July 6.—The usual lull after the storm finds the boxing industry this week at a new low for the year. Boxing promoters evidently are operating on the theory that there was too much activity last week that the customers should be given a slight breathing space.

On almost the same spot where he stepped up Saturday to hole a fifteen-foot putt on the same green to bring about a tie with Burke over the regulation seventy-two-hole route, Von Elm again displayed his marvelous fighting spirit by sinking a twelve-footer for a birdie that brought about the second successive deadlock, after 108 stormy and sensational holes of competition.
A GREAT BATTLE
They were tied at 292 strokes apiece Saturday. They were still all square at the end of thirty-six play-off holes yesterday, with totals of 148 each and grand totals of 441.
They are playing another thirty-six holes to-day. If necessary they will continue to play thirty-six holes per day until one or the other breaks through to end the greatest non-stop flight in the thirty-five-year history of the United States open championship.
It looked as though the finish was in sight yesterday on the thirty-fifth hole of a ding-dong battle where Burke canned a ten-foot putt to keep his slim margin of a single stroke as Von Elm missed an eight-footer for a birdie three. They had fought all day long, with the tide of fortune shifting in sensational fashion. With one blazing streak, Von Elm had reeled off four successive birdies to wipe out Burke's four-stroke lead at the twenty-fifth-hole and assume a two-stroke margin himself.
BURKE RALLIES
Burke had staged a comeback of his own, pulling himself level again with a birdie at the thirty-second-hole, and taken the lead once more by a stroke on the thirty-third, a treacherous 441-yard layout, where Von Elm took what appeared to be a disastrous six.
For two successive days the home hole had taken terrific punishment from Von Elm, and this, it seemed, increased his confidence as he stroked toward it, while a gallery of nearly 4,000 spectators scrambled for points of vantage. Both pitched well on Burke twenty feet away and Von Elm twelve. Billie putted first and missed by slightly more than two feet. George, as game a fighter as United States golf has ever known, set his square jaw firmly, lined the putt carefully and struck it in for the birdie three, his third in four successive rounds on this hole. It clinched the deadlock as Burke got down his short one without hesitation.
Only once before in United States open championship history have two play-off rounds been required to settle the winner. This was in 1925 at Worcester, Mass., where Willie MacFarlane and Bobby Jones tied at the end of one round, were forced to go another round before MacFarlane triumphed. At that time, however, only eighteen holes were required for a decision, so that the play-off went only thirty-six holes for a total of 108 holes for each of these stars.
At the close of play Saturday, Burke's four steady rounds showed him with figures of 73-72-74-73—292. Von Elm, harassed by the tailgating gallery of 8,000, began the home-made jaunt and immediately encountered difficulties as he sought to hold a two-hole edge. He dropped a stroke at the twelfth and lost another when he was forced to play a safety shot from the rough on the fifteenth. He was all even with Burke, three holes to go, but three par fours needed to tie.
When he three-putted the sixteenth, Von Elm appeared to be slipping fast, but he again proved his fighting quality by delivering the telling punch on his last chance. He got his par four on the seventeenth, then hit a beautiful drive from the last tee. His pitch was hole high, 15 feet to the left of this 325-yarder. The putt for the birdie three and a tie was never in doubt after it left the club head and sought over the bottom of the cup.
Burke and Von Elm Saturday had a two-stroke margin over the rest of the field. Leo Diegel, from Agua Caliente, came strong with a final 72, but it was only good enough to give him third place with a total of 304. In triple tie for fourth place at 305 were Willy Cox and Gene Sarazen of New York and Bill Melior of Pinevald, N.J.
Tied at 297 were Walter Hagen and Mortie Dutra of Long Beach, Cal., the tie at 297 also included Phil Perkins, New York, former British amateur champion, who led all the amateur competitors as he finished with a fine par-breaking 70.
Only one member of the British Ryder Cup team finished, W. H. (Billie) Davies, posting a total of 305. The only other British to stick the route was Percy Alliss, representing a Berlin club, with 315. France's entry, Auguste Boyer, wound up with 307.

At the close of play Saturday, Burke's four steady rounds showed him with figures of 73-72-74-73—292. Von Elm, harassed by the tailgating gallery of 8,000, began the home-made jaunt and immediately encountered difficulties as he sought to hold a two-hole edge. He dropped a stroke at the twelfth and lost another when he was forced to play a safety shot from the rough on the fifteenth. He was all even with Burke, three holes to go, but three par fours needed to tie.
When he three-putted the sixteenth, Von Elm appeared to be slipping fast, but he again proved his fighting quality by delivering the telling punch on his last chance. He got his par four on the seventeenth, then hit a beautiful drive from the last tee. His pitch was hole high, 15 feet to the left of this 325-yarder. The putt for the birdie three and a tie was never in doubt after it left the club head and sought over the bottom of the cup.
Burke and Von Elm Saturday had a two-stroke margin over the rest of the field. Leo Diegel, from Agua Caliente, came strong with a final 72, but it was only good enough to give him third place with a total of 304. In triple tie for fourth place at 305 were Willy Cox and Gene Sarazen of New York and Bill Melior of Pinevald, N.J.
Tied at 297 were Walter Hagen and Mortie Dutra of Long Beach, Cal., the tie at 297 also included Phil Perkins, New York, former British amateur champion, who led all the amateur competitors as he finished with a fine par-breaking 70.
Only one member of the British Ryder Cup team finished, W. H. (Billie) Davies, posting a total of 305. The only other British to stick the route was Percy Alliss, representing a Berlin club, with 315. France's entry, Auguste Boyer, wound up with 307.

Monster Meeting At Bisley Rifle Ranges Opened

Thousands of Crack Marksmen From All Parts of British Empire Gathered for Two Weeks of Competition; Sgt. Major Solman, Seeburgh School, Wins Southern Railway Service Rifle Shoot; Burke and Dow Lead Canadians; Marjory Foster, Last Year's King's Prize Winner, Among Entrants

Bisley Camp, Eng., July 6.—Sgt. Major Solman, Seeburgh School, with a score of 31 out of a possible 35, to-day won the Southern Railway Service Rifle Shoot, opening match in the great two-week meeting of the National Rifle Association here.

The match consisted of seven shots with service rifles at 200 yards. Lieut. Desmond Burke of Ottawa, former King's prize-winner, and Lieut. J. D. Dow of St. John, N.B., led Canadians in this shoot with 31 each.

Weather conditions were very bad, with heavy rain falling. One competitor missed all his shots in the Queen Mary's shoot under service conditions. Sgt. Lawrence, who is more than seventy years of age, winner of the King's Prize a half-century ago and in the final stage seventeen times since, scored 30 in the Southern Railway shoot.
The great two-week meeting has brought to Bisley thousands of crack rifle shots, some from far distant parts of the Empire.
Various fairly important competitions are already under way, although the historic features do not begin in earnest until the close of the week.
MISS FOSTER ATTEMDS
Several women, including Miss Marjory Foster, who last year gained the distinction of being the first woman to win the King's Prize, took part in to-day's events.
The Canadian ladies team, one of the many outlying parts of the Empire, included a husband and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, who shot side by side.
The Canadian ladies team had an enjoyable match with the North London Rifle Club yesterday, but were defeated by twenty-seven points. Lieut. Desmond Burke of Ottawa, winner of the King's Prize in 1924, did not take part. The Canadians were invited to luncheon by their opponents.

Brooklyn Creeps To Within Half a Game of New York

Robins Continue Fine Winning Streak in National League With Third Straight Win Over Giants 4 to 3; Chicago Cubs Down St. Louis 2 to 1 in Ten Innings; Washington Keeps in American League Race by Down Philadelphia 4 to 2; Earnshaw's Two Errors Costly to Athletics

The Boston Braves are finding a lot of woe in their task of locating a satisfactory third baseman, but even if their recent $35,000 purchase, Billy Urbanski, doesn't turn out to be all that his debut led Boston fans to expect, then they can have some consolation in the mound work of Fred Frankhouse.
Frankhouse, who did not perform with special brilliance after he was obtained from St. Louis last year, has suddenly blossomed out as a consistent winner. He has won all of his last five games, beating the Chicago Cubs twice and St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia once each. In this time Boston's opponents have made just twenty-seven hits. The best performance of them all came yesterday when Frankhouse limited the Phillies to four hits in a duel with Ray Benge, who gave six and won 4 to 2. Benge drove in two runs for the Phillies but Red Worthington evened things with a homer and Earl Sheely drove in two more runs.
Fine pitching was quite the rule in the major leagues yesterday as seven of the nine games were won on low-hits hurling.
Adolfo Luque and Jack Quinn, two Brooklyn veterans, got together and held the New York Giants to six blows as Brooklyn came through in the ninth inning to win a 3 to 1 victory. The series. All the New York runs came in the sixth, two on Mel Ott's homer. The three straight victories put the Robins in third place, only a half game behind New York.

CUBS WIN IN TEN INNINGS
Paul Derringer of St. Louis and Pat Malone of Chicago duelled for ten innings, each allowing seven hits, but Malone proved the stronger finisher, winning 2 to 1. He pitched near perfect ball after the first inning and scored the winning run himself after clouting a double.
Some of the edge was taken off the opening of the American League's "crucial" series between Philadelphia and Washington by the fact that the Senators could get no closer than two and a half games from A's by winning all three games. But things looked up a bit after Washington slipped away with a neat 4 to 2 victory. George Earnshaw showed well for the champions but fielded weakly. He gave only six hits, while Fred Marberry allowed eight, but helped toss away the game by making two errors.
Sammy Gray pitched a fine game for the St. Louis Browns in the opener, giving Chicago only four hits and not a walk to win by a 3 to 1 count. But Wallace Hebert and two successors proved less effective in the second clash and the White Sox hammered the Browns 6 to 5 victory. The other slugging match of the day came in Cincinnati, where the Pittsburgh Pirates came from behind with a fifteen-hit assault on the home pitchers and beat the Reds 6 to 4.
Danny Macfadyen of the Boston Red Sox gave the New York Yankees only seven hits in eleven innings but was hard pressed to win as both teams tossed away chances through errors. Arndt Jorgens' wild throw in the eleventh proved the deciding factor, giving the way for a three-run rally and Boston's 6 to 3 triumph.
Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's ace, got off to a bad start against Detroit, while the Indians were just beginning to bunch some of their own hits off the Sorrell when rain cut short the contest. The final count of the seven-inning game was 5 to 4 for Detroit.

ELKS DIVIDE DOUBLE BILL

Beat Tacoma Nine 8 to 6 in Afternoon, But Drop Evening Fixture 21 to 6

In the two exhibition baseball games played at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday, the Elks and Schaffer Box Company nine, Tacoma, broke even. Behind the steady pitching of Leo Holden, the local club won the afternoon fixture 8-6, while the visitors went on a great batting spree to take the evening battle 21-6.

The first game was one of the best played at the park this season and was featured by three home runs, Forbes and Minnis of the Elks, clouting the ball out of the park for the visitors. Minnis' home run in the eighth inning, inside the park, a long hit to right field, with Dunn on first base, drove in the winning run. The Elks played first-class ball behind Holden who showed his best form this season.

In the evening, the Tacoma players took to the offerings of Webster and Noble like ducks to water and it was just a procession from start to finish. Seven home runs were piled out by the American, Bettner getting a couple, and Chilla, Mays, Phipps and Tyce one each.

AURORAS BEAT LOCAL ELEVEN

Crack Vancouver Cricket Team Defeat Five C's in Low Scoring Match

Wanderers and Incoogs Draw in Friendly Game at Work Point Grounds

Bringing their tour of the Island to a close with an unbroken record of victories, Vancouver Auroras on Saturday sent the Five C's down to defeat by forty-eight runs at Beacon Hill. The match, an intercity fixture, was marked by low scoring, the final count being 103 to 57 for the visitors.

ANOTHER SURE ENTRY
Carrie Grey, first woman to finish last year, will also be after the prized trophy, while many other swimmers, both young and old, from Victoria, Vancouver and U.S. points are expected to enter the grind, which is considered the greatest aquatic endurance test held on the Island.

In addition to the value of the trophies at stake, the winner of the event enjoys great prestige in swimming circles. In former years, Audrey Griffin, one-time leading mermaid of the Pacific Northwest, Tommy Wellburn, British Columbia and Canadian champion, Johnny Cameron, outstanding Vancouver performer of a few years ago, and George Burrows, at present rated among the leaders in the province, have been the cup winners. Each year the standard of competition appears to be getting keener, judging from the times recorded for the senior event.

STARTED BEFORE THE WAR
Inaugurated by the Y.M.C.A. before the war, the Through-Victoria swim has flourished in the early days of swimming here. After a break it was resumed in 1919, when it was run under the auspices of The Times. While being a test of endurance, it is also one of speed, giving the best performers in British Columbia a chance to demonstrate their talent. During the decade Audrey Griffin was supreme, the tradition was the favored stroke; Johnny Cameron introduced a special side stroke, and Tommy Wellburn captured the cup, swimming a four-beat stroke. Burrows swam a six-beat stroke, keeping up his rhythm steadily along the entire route.

In the junior event, inaugurated two years ago, and won by Ed. Rockley and Walker in 1929 and 1930, respectively, young swimmers, who do not tax themselves as the seniors do, are offered a test of endurance. The course is approximately one and one-half miles long. Last year many of the entries in this contest kept right on during the entire distance, the finishing point, and swam to the Gorge, to capture some of the chief prizes offered for higher company. Young aspirants, one under twelve years of age, have shown exceptional pluck and fighting spirit.

TIME TO START TRAINING
With warm weather taking the chill off the water, prospective entries have had an opportunity of going in for outside training. Several of the sure competitors have been plunging in the different bays around the coast to make sure they will find the water along the Gorge course agreeably warm.

As in previous years, all contestants will have to hold amateur cards and will carry a doctor and other officials. Changing facilities will be arranged. All contestants must swim the entire distance in their respective classes without touching their boats or receiving other outside assistance. Green and swimming helmets and goggles may be used by those who wish. Entries for the event may be filed with the Sports Department of The Victoria Daily Times.

The Shawnigan Lake Athletic Association, well-known sports organization of the Lower Island, whose quarters were razed by fire, will again have headquarters at the north end of the lake by the end of September. It was announced Saturday. At a committee meeting the members interested in the rebuilding project, awarded the contract for the construction of the clubhouse to the Kennedy Leth Construction Company.

SPRINT JIMMY THOMPSON

AND THIS BOY AND PULL ARTIST GOT KAYO FROM MR. FAN.

THE WRESTLER THAT LOST HIS BOUT BY A KAYO

In these modern times there is little telling just how a bout may end in the squared ring. The boxing game has had a series of fouls that nearly have given the sport the final count. Then, in wrestling, the world's title has been won by a bite. A recent bout in Baltimore is entitled by little more than honorable mention. The local promoters were staging a push and pull contest in that city and after the bout had been in progress about twenty minutes, Davidcut, one of the contestants, wrapped his maulers about his opponent's neck. Referee Cyclone Burns ruled that it was a strange hold and proceeded to break it. As he was trying, a spectator crawled through the ropes and handed Davidcut a haymaker, which knocked out the other lights until he had been carried to his dressing room. When examined by the attending doctor it was found that the blow had done a lump as big as an egg on his chin. The spectator was allowed to cool in jail but refused any explanation for his act.

ARTHUR WINS OVER ANDERSON

Local Middleweight Wrestler Wins Finish Bout Two Falls Out of Three

Pinning his opponent for the third and deciding fall early in the fifth round, Ernie Arthur, Victoria middleweight wrestler, won his final bout with Des Anderson, Seattle, at the Tillamook gymnasium on Saturday evening. In the semi-windup, Ernie Utah, Turkey, won two out of three falls from "Rocky" Brooks, Victoria heavyweight.

After throwing his opponent all around the ring in the second round, Anderson obtained the first fall on Arthur with a whip wristlock. After an even third round, Arthur evaded matters in the fourth with a body slam. Only a few seconds after the first opened, Anderson attempted to put on a flying hind kick and missed, Arthur grabbing him to pin his shoulders with a body press.

In the Brooks-Utauf match, the Turk gained the opening fall in the second round with a body crash. Tearing out of his corner to start the third, Brooks picked Utauf up and slammed him to the mat for the trying fall. Another body slam in the fifth round gave Utauf the third and winning fall.

Kingston Street In Win Over Duncan

Local Club's First Division Men Score First Win in Island League

Steve Jones Defeats Eric Leney 6-2, 6-3; Victoria and J.B.A.A. Winners

Kingston Street A men turned in their first win of the present season in the Vancouver Island Lawn Tennis League yesterday when they defeated Duncan, 8 to 7. In the other matches Victoria defeated J.B.A.A. on Saturday in a C Division match, 7 to 1, while the J.B.A.A., No. 2, defeated C.P.R. by a like score.

With the score in the A match standing at seven all, Barnes and Huxtable were left on the courts opposing Appleby and Dobell in the deciding game. The Kingston Street players took this match in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3. Jones played great tennis in the singles, Kingston Street took a lead of 7 to 3, with Jones, Barnes and Huxtable turning in double victories while Harrison defeated Muttter, Jones turned the tables on Eric Leney for the defeat he suffered on the grass courts at Duncan in the first meeting, by taking the Duncan ace into camp 6-2, 6-3. ## TARIFF REPEAL URGED TO PROP EXPORT SLUMP

New York, July 6.—Repeat the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act or be prepared to see the export trade of the United States seriously affected by the retaliatory measures of the other nations of the world. That, in substance, is the warning to domestic industry of Gage P. Wright, president of the Business Economic Digest. Mr. Wright finds other factors restricting our foreign trade, but no other wielding the large influence of our tariff measure.

He points to the fact that the "most favored nation" treatment accorded to the United States by many European nations, which prevents the enactment of tariffs discriminating against our products, probably will be withdrawn when present commercial treaties expire, for so far Europe hasn't benefited by these treaties.

"There are four major factors unfavorably affecting the export position of the United States," says Mr. Wright. "In the first place, much of the foreign demand for our goods was financed by loans floated in the domestic market. Investment confidence in foreign obligations has been shaken, however, and probably will be slow to recover, thus shutting off an important source of foreign buying power."

EUROPE REHABILITATED
"Second, European industry has been rehabilitated since the war and Europe is supplying an increasing quantity of her own requirements. Third, many countries are forced to export more than they import in order to pay off war debts and other obligations, and this situation has a two-edged significance. Imports of American goods will decrease and foreign exports will compete with our goods in international markets."

"Fourth comes the 'most favored' nation treaties and the Hawley-Smoot tariff. Could anything be more ill-advised than for a nation to erect a tariff at a time when its customers are hard put to it to buy at all and, by so doing, to create antagonism which will make itself felt in retaliatory measures?" The Hawley-Smoot bill was practically steam-rollered through Congress as a self-protective measure essential to the welfare of domestic industry and labor.

"Well, it hasn't prevented more than 6,000,000 wage earners from being without work and it hasn't prevented the worst business depression this country has known in the memory of two generations. It is hard to see how it has benefited ordinary industry at all, and just how it aids American labor is a puzzle which even Senator Smoot hasn't answered."

OFF 37 PER CENT FROM 1923
Mr. Wright called attention to the fact that the foreign trade of the United States in the first quarter of this year had fallen 37 per cent below the peak volume established in 1929 and pointed to the alarming nature of the decline, which was most severe in the case of manufactured goods. Foreign consumption of finished goods increased more rapidly in our last period of prosperity than the consumption of raw materials and in the decade prior to 1929 the gain in this class of exports exceeded the gain in domestic trade.

"Close students of the situation," Mr. Wright concluded, "believe our export business during the next era of prosperity will be a less important factor than in the 1921-1929 period. In other words, exports of finished goods throughout the next several years probably will increase at a slower rate than the increase in domestic trade, contrary to the experience of the last decade."

Pender Island

McLean, reported on the purchase of equipment and increase in membership, with finances in a healthy condition. ## Sheriff Picking 296 Women And Men For Juries

Officials under Sheriff Goggin to-day started preparation of the jury lists for the next year.

Ninety-six persons are being selected from a body of representative citizens for the grand jury list, and 200 more are being named for the petit jury list.

A large number of the names are those of women. Men who are named on the jury list cannot decline to act, but all women named will be notified and given fifteen days in which to make up their minds and decide whether they will act or not. At the end of the fifteen-day period, if they have decided to serve as jurors they are set down.

The jury notices started to go out this afternoon. Completion of the list now is in preparation for the fall Assizes in September.

LEGAL VACATION NEAR, BUT JUDGES STILL WORKING

Court of Appeal Continues; All Courts Should Have Finished For Summer on June 30

With the Court of Appeal pushing to get through by the middle of this week, the benches of the law society in session here to-day and admitting six new lawyers to practice in British Columbia and Sheriff Goggin with his officials speeding completion of the new jury lists, the final rush before launching into the vacation season is on at the Courthouse to-day.

The vacation period will last until the end of August.

Theoretically, vacation season started at the end of June, but such has been the rush in some departments that some of judges and officials have not yet got any further than discussing where they are going.

There were no Supreme Court judges in Victoria to-day, and as a consequence the ceremony of calling to the bar of six new lawyers, who had come from Vancouver, Prince Rupert and Kamloops, had to be postponed. A complete list of names will be set down for consideration during the vacation season and judges will return to town for these.

WEEKLY SESSIONS

During vacation, Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald of the Supreme Court will come to Victoria every Thursday to hold chambers sessions at 10:30 o'clock. Mr. Justice Macdonald will also hold chambers sessions every Thursday at 10:30 o'clock.

What vacation season means in the legal profession was set out to-day in a formal ruling from District Registrar Mather and issued to all officials. In this he cites the court decision from Fuller v. McLean, 2 P.R. 349, as follows: "As a general rule, vacation operates as a suspension of all contentious business, except as regards injunctions and matters of urgency."

During the season the closing hours for lawyers' offices will be 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Carries Fight To Enter Canada To High Court

Claiming she is a Canadian-born, and as a Canadian subject has the right to return to her country, Jung Sui Allen carried her fight to enter Canada to the Court of Appeal here to-day.

C. H. O'Halloran, her lawyer, opened the case by telling how she had been born in 1912 at Union, near Cumberland, B.C., and as one of a family of six children taken back to China with her mother. The other children returned here at various times and are scattered across Canada. She is the last.

Against Mr. Justice Gregory's refusal over-rule the decision of immigration officials not to allow the girl to enter Canada, Mr. O'Halloran claimed the immigration inspector here had not complied with the terms of the law with regard to the holding of an inquiry into her case and that an interpreter was allowed to conduct the inquiry instead of a commissioner, as set out in the act. He claimed that the interpreter George A. Hart had forced her under stress to make certain statements damaging to her case.

Gyro Seek CONVENTION

Ask President to Apply For International Gathering Here in 1936

Wire Forwarded to W. C. Hudson Following Motion Passed at Luncheon To-day

Members of the Victoria Gyro Club to-day decided to ask their president, W. C. Hudson, at present attending the international convention in Hamilton, Ont., to put in an application for an international gathering here in 1936, wire to this effect was sent following the club's luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

H. N. Sibbald, who introduced the idea, stated the scheme would prove a good objective for the club. Although he realized it was a big proposition, he stated certain Coast cities had reported a profit from international conventions. He believed about 300 delegates would attend.

The club was urged to support the celebration programme drawn up by the United Commercial Travelers at the Gyro Garden and Royal Victoria Theatre on July 17, 18 and 20.

A Christopher was announced winner of the lowest gross prize in the recent Gyro golf tournament, while H. N. Sibbald and L. Woodhouse were low net men.

A suggestion that Gyro greeting signs be placed on the trunk road into Victoria was referred to the directors.

FISHERMAN WAS NEARLY DROWNED

A near drowning on the Sooke River, just below the waterfalls, was averted yesterday by the quick action of Frank H. Howard-Tyrell, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Tyrell, Beach Drive. According to the boys' father, an elderly man was fishing in a deep pool opposite the spot where the Sooke River is nearly drowned.

The man slipped on the wet rocks and fell into the water. Apparently unable to swim and straddled in heavy fishing boots, he soon was in a bad way and went down twice.

The Tyrell boys jumped in, fully dressed, and swam across the river. They reached the fisherman, but because of his exhausted condition and his heavy apparel, could do no more than hold him up.

Colin, Tyrell, a young brother, assisted by Roland Booth, hastily made a big log into a raft and the pair paddled it across the stream. The rescuers succeeded in getting the man on the log and taking him to land.

A fire was lit and the fisherman's clothes were dried. Because he said he did not wish his wife and family to be alarmed, the man refused to give his name, but he warmly thanked his rescuers.

"All set?" asked Arlett. He indicated Jack to the youngest possible. "Hurry the Red Egg. If he explodes."

"You'll make him sign the certificate, Judge?" Sir George asked. "A photograph of that signature will do away with any blackmailing scheme he has in his dirty mind, and will make him a laughing stock in his own refined circle. If that doesn't remove him from our path I'll take a gun. I'm growing quite American, you see."

"No guns," said Judge Arlett disapprovingly. "I don't hold with them. But I'll offer this dark-complected young fellow the chance to sign and get away while the going's good."

"Jack," Sir George said amicably, "will sign to oblige the lady or I'll be compelled to tell the judge my suspicions as to his complicity with the gang who tried to get Macbeth's payroll."

He paused significantly, and held Robert's hand tightly to prevent her from speaking, for he saw that Robert's knowledge that this man had used her to harm her father was the most overwhelming blow.

Jack looked at them, then at the other three men. "I'll sign," he muttered.

CHAPTER XIV

Robert MacBeth was growing anxious. He had been wheeled out to watch the distant fire, but that had long since died down and it grew dark with Robert and Sir George still missing, and no word from them.

There was much excitement on the part of the guests from New York, because the bridge was gone. There was no direct communication with the other side now, so they must go further down the river and cross at Bridgetown for their return. It meant they must leave earlier. Lady Sanderson bustled about, arranging for an early supper, and for a time there was so much hurry and excitement that the absence of daughter and secretary was apparently forgotten.

When they had all gone, Ray Browne had time to wonder why the secretary did not return with his car.

Sir George and Robert! What did it mean? He glanced at Robert MacBeth sitting silent beside him, and tried to guess what he was thinking. They watched the long procession of cars returning from up the river and from watching the fire. Still no word from either Robert or Aggy.

Browne felt he must make light of the fact that the two had not returned, for Robert MacBeth's sake.

"Something wrong with my car. The little beast is always breaking down," he said, as went away in one of the MacBeth cars.

A car came swiftly up to the terrace and Robert helped the obstinate Sir George out. The doctor had not been able to keep him in bed. It had been a remarkably silent journey home. Robert, filled with anxiety for Sir George, had driven. Sir George's head had been on her shoulder. He leaned heavily against her. He had been saving his breath and his strength for his meeting with the redoubtable sister. Yet, Robert had never, would never, have a more thrilling ride than this through the night, with her stranger husband close to her, dependent on her. There seemed no need of speech between them—yet.

Robert's firm young arm went around him. She helped him to a chair on the terrace and he sank in it, twisted her hands helplessly as she stood looking at him. "You should not stand, not even for a moment! You should be in bed. Oh, what a state!"

"Hunt Aunt Aggy were to see you now."

"Aggy will have to keep her hands off," said Aggy's ungrateful stepson. "Robert, divorce is easy in this country and I'll never hold you—if you want to go."

The girl gave him a swift, flashing look. "Why did you marry me?"

He looked at her in the soft light, for the storm was long since over and the late moon was rising. He laughed. "For just the one reason. I'm mad about every hair in your darling red head. I could spend the rest of my life kissing the dimple in your cheek."

"I want the truth."

"You've had it," said Sir George and kissed the dimple and her mouth.

Presently Robert drew her head back and whispered: "I think I'll stay married to you."

He laughed softly. "You're easily satisfied. I'm still a poor Scot with barren acres and a cold, old stone house."

"And I'm still a red-haired, hateful-tempered—"

"Darling," said Sir George. "Do you think you can help me to the door and face the music?"

"Oh, here you are at last!" Lady Sanderson came out on the terrace. "I thought I heard a car. Think shame to yourselves, both of you, gallivanting about, leaving your guests to find their way home the best they could, and frightening me and Rob out of our senses."

"Oh, no," said Sir George quickly. "You were not really worrying about us yet, Aggy."

"Was I not," she came nearer and perceived that Robert's arm was about Sir George and that his face was white in the moonlight and his head hanging as well as his foot. She ran to him. "Robert MacBeth, your heartless girl, what have you been doing to my laddie?"

"Marrying me, Aggy," said her stepson smiling.

Robert MacBeth had heard their voices and such was his anxiety that he had risen from his wheelchair and was slowly hobbling toward them. Robert, now that Aggy was there to support Sir George, ran to him and put her arms about him. She led him to where Lady Sanderson knelt, her arms about her boy.

But Sir George put Aggy aside and held out his hand to Robert. She left him and went to him.

"I—we—we're married, sir. Sorry I can't stand up," Sir George added, sinking back into his chair. "It was a little sudden, but I trust your won't object very strenuously."

"I do," said Robert MacBeth angrily, clutching at a chair to help him stand erect. "I do most strenuously."

"Father!" cried Robert. "Wait until you hear why he did it. He wasn't in the least to blame. He did it to save me from a terrible mistake."

"Nothing of the kind," declared Sir George indignantly. "I did it because I've been mad about you ever since I first saw you."

"I Believe," Says One Intelligent Man, "That Nothing Would Do More to Stabilize Marriage Than to Pass a Law to Prohibit Divorce During the First Five Years of Marriage?"

THE OTHER day we were discussing the fact that one marriage in six in this country goes on the rocks, and a very intelligent and thoughtful man suggested that the best remedy for this tragic condition of affairs was to make marriage a five-year contract. "I believe," he said, "that nothing would do more to stabilize marriage than to pass a law to prohibit divorce during the first five years of marriage. That would make getting married a concrete business proposition instead of leaving it in the glittering sentimentalities class as it is now. If young people knew that when they signed the marriage register they were putting their names to an iron-clad contract that they could not possibly break for five years it would make them pause and think and prevent many a foolish and ill-advised marriage."

"Nobody can deny that nowadays boys and girls give less serious thought to selecting their wives and husbands than they do to picking out an automobile or a new hat. For in the case of the automobile they would consider the make and type of car and what horsepower engine it had, and whether they wanted to use it as a truck or a sport car, and in the case of the hat they would consider its suitability and whether it harmonized with their own personality and fired their fancies."

"But they will pick out their life partners without giving a single serious thought to the background and character and habits of the men and women they are marrying or whether they are adapted to each other or not or even whether they care enough for each other to endure a lifetime of each other's society. A boy will marry a girl because she is pretty or cute or because he likes the way she does her hair, and a girl will marry a boy because he is a peachy dancer or a good spender or has a keen line, and the reason they marry thus casually is because the idea is in the back of their minds that if they don't like it they won't have to stick it."

"Nothing is commoner than to hear young people in talking of marriage say, 'Oh, well, I'm a sport. I'll try anything once,' and even while they are solemnly swearing at the altar to take each other for better or worse until death do them part they are privately thanking heaven that divorce is easy and has become respectable and a common thing in our best circles."

"But suppose these youngsters, who so blithely run off and get married after a whoopee party or a dare, knew that they had to stick to their bargain for five long years, no matter what happened, don't you think that they would reflect a little about what they were going to do? I'll say they would. It is one thing to promise to cleave to Maud or Algonquin for a lifetime, knowing that you can get rid of him or her any minute when you lose your taste for him or her or his or her society palls upon you and quite another thing to sign a contract that you can't break or wiggle out of, to put up with the faults and follies and endure the conversation of Maud and Algonquin for 1,825 consecutive long days that may seem longer."

"No, I can see nothing that would do more to prevent indiscriminate and unconsidered marriages than a cold, chilled-steel contract that would hold men and women to their bargain for five years and prevent them from marrying anyone else."

"Then the five-year contract would give the man and woman who entered into it time to try their marriage out and find out whether they could make a success of it or not if they really put their hearts and their backs into it. It would give them a chance to adapt themselves to each other, and that is something that can't be done in a few months. It is a slow process that requires years."

"The trouble with most young married people is that they don't give marriage a fair show. They throw up their hands and quit just as soon as they fail to find it all their romantic dreams had painted."

"If they went into any other job, law, medicine, writing, the grocery trade, anything, they would expect to work their way up and to be middle-aged before they were getting good salaries or drawing down heavy dividends, but they are not willing to work and wait for happiness in marriage. It must be all plump from the beginning or they cry out that it is a failure and go into bankruptcy."

"Some of the most successful men in the world stare along for years at the beginning of their careers. Some of the biggest businesses were nursed along through years in which they nearly perished of anemia. And many a marriage that was in failure could be turned into a great success if only the man and woman had to stick together for five years and had to make a definite effort to get along with each other and make the best of each other instead of being free to run to the divorce court as soon as they had their first spat or discovered that they were married to human beings instead of angels and movie heroes."

"And finally," said the man, "still another good point in favor of the five-year marriage contract is that it would put a time limit on the sufferings of the unhappily married and enable them to endure it with fortitude. We can stand anything if we know it is going to end, and often we learn to like the thing that was at first distasteful, but that we had to endure. And I have an idea that what is true of spinach and coffee without sugar would often be true of husbands and wives that after having stood each other for five years they would find that they had acquired a taste for each other."

Such was this man's theory of a limited marriage contract. What say you?

The Beginning of Music

As I write this article, I hear music coming from a radio. Many years ago—in 1889, to be exact—Edward Bellamy wrote a book which predicted that the time would come when people would be able to hear music played at a great distance. Those who read the book must have smiled. How could anyone suppose that music could travel across the miles?

Drums used by natives of Portuguese East Africa.

If you visit native tribes in Africa, you will find that some of them beat hollow-log drums. Sometimes they place animal skins over the ends of hollow-log sections. It is likely that our ancestors in Europe made their first drums from hollow logs.

The harp probably had its beginning in the bow used to speed arrows on their way. Someone may have thought there was music in the "twang" of the bowstring. Stretch several strings of different lengths across the arch of a bow, and you will have a harp of a crude type.

In the course of time, the large harp came to be. With its many strings it could be used in making pleasant music. How did the piano begin? If you have ever looked at the inside of a piano, you may have noticed that the strings are arranged in the order of strings in a harp. A piano is little more than a harp connected with little hammers which will strike strings when keys are pressed.

GLIDER PILOT LOSES LIFE

Newport Beach, Cal., July 6.—Clyde White, twenty-nine, Long Beach, dropped fifty feet to his death yesterday in a home-made glider plane while his wife looked on. White and C. C. Smith, Long Beach, owner of the craft, had made several flights each from a hill on the Irvine ranch gliding grounds near Corona del Mar. On his last glide, White had sailed more than a mile—nearly to where Mrs. White awaited his landing when the glider seemed to flatten out and stall and then dropped.

TENSE MYSTERY
STORY PLAYING AT THE CAPITOL

"Men of the Sky" First National Mystery Romance With Settings in Baden-Baden

The moving drama of "Men of the Sky," the first National mystery romance, which is showing for three days at the Capitol Theatre starting today, is heightened by the marvelous and ever-changing beauty of settings and photography.

This picture opens in gay Baden-Baden, a fortnight before the beginning of the World War. Pleasure-seekers from Germany, France and America mingle happily together, their greatest concern, however, being the ominous bulletins that set them wondering whether the friends of the day may be foes at night.

Though strained diplomatic relations existed, even an alien enemy was to be given the protection of the government until he could return home. Baden-Baden tried to act as if oblivious to the maelstrom that threatened.

The tension is faithfully recorded by Director Green in "Men of the Sky." The cast includes Irene Delroy, Jack Whiting, Brunel Fletcher, John Simpson, McHugh, Edward Maxwell, Otto Matiesen, Lotti Loder, Armand Kallis and Mireille.

"Men of the Sky" is by Otto Harbach and Jerome Kays who have created more rare entertainment than any other team of the day.

Hilarious Comedy Of Oxford Student Life
At Columbia Theatre

Old Favorite "Charlie's Aunt" Will Show Here This Week With Splendid Cast

"Charlie's Aunt," a hilarious comedy of student life at picturesque Oxford University, is the latest vehicle of that famous player, Charlie Ruggles, belted of millions of fans. This Columbia picture, produced by Christie, comedy specialist, opened today at the Columbia Theatre.

Charlie Ruggles was a happy choice for the starring role. "Tina" left another comedian on the screen today who possesses that combination of slapstick and sophisticated humor necessary for the successful interpretation of the "dowager aunt from Brazil." This is the biggest role that he has had to date, although his previous ones were all successful. They were roles that established Ruggles in a unique position on the screen in spite of the fact that they were always secondary parts. Often he succeeded in stealing the picture from the star. In "Charlie's Aunt" he plays the title role, June Collyer, Halliwell Hobbes, Flora Le Breton, Flora Sheff, Rodney McLennan, Hugh Williams and Doris Lloyd play supporting roles. Al Christie directed.

DOMINION THEATRE

The hope of every screen actress is to get a vehicle that is perfectly suited to her talents. An excellent actress may by sheer technique and ability play a role that "isn't quite the type" and make it real and convincing—but she can always do infinitely better if the part fits her.

In the case of Miss Gaynor, however, this hope has been realized—not once, but twice. The first time was when she played the memorable "Diana" of "Seven Heavens"—a role that might have been written to order for her unusual personality and her wistful appeal.

Now the lightning strikes a second time in her latest vehicle, "Daddy Long Legs," now showing for a week's run at the Dominion Theatre. This picture, which is a real gem, is the story of a little orphan girl whose courage wins her eventual happiness. Miss Gaynor again has a part that measures up to her own high standards of poignant charm.

While Fox studio officials had long realized the appropriateness of the motion picture for over 100 hours, the peculiar suitability of the part was not apparent until Director Alfred Santell and Sonya Levien, the scenarist, began work on the picture.

Warner Baxter is co-starred with Miss Gaynor in the film. Una Merkel, John Arledge, Claude Gillingwater, Kathryn Williams, Elizabeth Patterson, Louise Closser Hale, Effie Ellsler and other favorites are also in the cast.

NOBILE JOINS PARTY'S SEARCH IN THE ARCTIC

Moscow, U.S.S.R., July 6.—General Umberto Nobile, Italian explorer, who commanded the Arctic dirigible Italia, will be aboard the Russian icebreaker Malign when it sails for Archangel, July 15, for an expedition into the Far North. He hopes he may find Capt. Roland Amundsen and the men of the Italia expedition.

Many Arctic experts have expressed a belief in the possibility that the six men of the dirigible's crew who are missing, as well as Amundsen and his aides, who disappeared after flying aboard a plane to the rescue of the Italia, may be found in the region of Cape Flora.

This hope is based on information supplied by the explorer, Anthony Foulke, who left stores of provisions on Rudolf Island during a previous expedition and told Amundsen of the cache before Amundsen went to the aid of the Italia. It is considered certain Amundsen made for the store if he was able, possibly taking the Italia survivors with him.

Rudolf Island has been visited twice during the expedition, but no systematic search was made.

PASSION PLAY
COMING HERE

Freiburg Version Will Be Presented Here Four Nights at New Willows Auditorium

Beginning July 23 and lasting four days, the famous Freiburg Passion Play, from Freiburg, Baden, Germany, will be presented at the Willows New Auditorium, providing one of the most notable events in Victoria's dramatic history.

The average Canadian witnessing the Passion Play will recognize at once that it is a foreign production. It goes contrary to Canadian stage traditions, both in theme and in production.

In a number of remote villages of continental Europe, Passion Plays, depicting the crucifixion and resurrection, are regularly portrayed. In others there are survivals of the medieval miracle plays which attract more than local attention. These presentations are an old and devout European custom. Formerly, and indeed, even today, the presentations are given for the sole purpose of religious instruction.

Of all of these miracle and Passion Plays which survive and present to our modern sophisticated civilization so curious an anomaly, only two are noteworthy as attracting the general attention of the world. These are the Oberammergau presentation in the Bavarian village of the name, and the Freiburg play, steeped in the traditions and lore of the city of Freiburg and the Black Forest of Baden. The Oberammergau presentation is given for a brief period every ten years. Its actors are peasants, farmers, makers of pottery, untraveled, but skilled and taught by centuries of tradition in the art of acting. To Oberammergau each presentation year thousands of Canadians journey to join with the other thousands of people from all over Europe who will witness the Passion Play.
